

Town faces additional cuts in state aid

by Arlene Surprenant
As a result of further cuts in local aid Saturday, Wilmington will get approximately $180,000 less in state revenues.

State legislators made a four percent cut across the board on all accounts that could legally be cut. Hardest hit were human services programs, higher education, and local aid to municipalities.

Town Manager Michael Caira was not pleased with the state's action.

"It's pretty clear this will have a negative effect on Wilmington's budget," Caira said Monday. He explained he will now have to rethink his proposed budget, which was presented to the finance committee last week, and either come up with additional revenues or make additional cuts. Caira said he was unsure exactly what the impact would be at this time. By not filling some vacant positions and cutting operating expenses in various town departments, Caira had been able to avoid layoffs on the town side of the budget.

Caira placed the blame for further reductions directly on state legislators.

"I'm not optimistic that the four percent will be returned any time soon. It's unfortunate because it's not the way to do business. I thought it was irresponsible of the state legislature," he said.

Caira later elaborated on the details of how much the town might lose, saying that it could be between $160,000 and $215,000. The amount will depend on which line items are hit for cuts, he said.

He also said there was a slight possibility that the cuts would be less than expected, maybe as low as $75,000 or $80,000.

Only time will tell.

Bridge repairs bid at $114k

The Mass. DPW has let a contract for the repair of the Burlington Avenue bridge.

The work will be performed by SPS New England, Inc. of Salisbury, for a bid price of $114,000. The award was announced on Wednesday by Scott Pickard of the DPW.

Pickard said the DPW's goal is to have the bridge open by Dec. 31. The bridge was closed to all traffic last month after it was determined that the bridge was unsafe.

The repairs will include the removal and replacement of the decking, stringers and steel beams.

Pickard said that the low bid came in 29 percent below the DPW estimate for the cost of the job.

With the bridge closed, traffic is being detoured to the Route 129 bridge and the Butters Row bridge, a narrow, wooden structure.

Town appeals decision claiming violation of Open Meeting Law

Wilmington Town Counsel Alan Altman is hoping to use the state Open Meeting Law to overturn a decision of the state Housing Appeals Committee (HAC) allowing construction of a housing project in North Wilmington.

Investors Management Group (IMG) seeks to build a project of rental apartments to be called Wilmington Aboretum Apartments on land behind the North Intermediate School between Ballardvale Street and Arlene Avenue. IMG first filed for a comprehensive permit in August 1986. The process is one by which developers can bypass local controls in exchange for inclusion of low-income units. All permits are grouped into one comprehensive process, run by the Board of Appeals. This process was set up under Ch. 774 of the Mass. General Laws, also known as the (Anti) Snob Zoning Statute.

The Wilmington Board of Appeals denied the permit and imposed several criteria as conditions. IMG took the case to the (HAC).

One key element in the town's case was the matter of a sewer connection. The town does have a sewer line nearby, running on the other side of the railroad tracks. It is an "interceptor" sewer line, designed to serve industrial firms on Ballardvale Street.

The sewers in Wilmington are built according to a master plan, and it is the contention of the Water and Sewer Commissioners that the inclusion of the apartment project on the sewer line would cause an overload. The commissioners stipulated that any sewer connection must be on the east side system, which has not yet been built. If IMG wanted to build the system to the specifications of the town, that would be one way to have it built.

The town's position was rejected by the HAC. On January 19, HAC issued an order that the Board of Appeals issue the permit.

The decision was, according to Water & Sewer Chairman Arthur Smith "irresponsible." The water commissioners had spent much time in planning an efficient and effective water and sewer system, which was being overruled.

"If we stand still for their decision we might as well throw away our master plan" Smith said last January. "They are destroying everything we are trying to do, in the guise of affordable housing."

The town filed motions to delay issuance of the permits, vacate the decision and petition for a rehearing. The HAC heard the petition and in February stayed the issuance of the permits, taking the other motions under advisement.

In May, the HAC allowed the motion to vacate the January 19 decision, but continued under advisement the petition for a rehearing.

The HAC on June 20, issued a decision, and on July 6 denied the petition for a rehearing.

Town Counsel Alan Altman is taking the matter to superior court, claiming that the HAC failed to meet in open session. He also asked court review of the decision on seven grounds, charging a constitutional violation, charging the HAC with exceeding its authority, that the decision was based on an error of law, was unsupported by substantial evidence, was unsupported by facts found by the court, and was arbitrary, capricious and an abuse of discretion.

Town counsel's use of the Open Meeting Law is somewhat ironic, as it is town boards that usually find themselves on the receiving end of that law. It requires that all meetings of governmental boards be posted and open to the public. The only penalty, however, if a board should violate the law is that its decision can be overturned. In this case, that's exactly what the town is looking for.

Dog owner seeks day in court

The owner of a male rottweiler ordered out of town is requesting a court hearing. Jeff Dindo has a hearing scheduled for Sept. 5 in Woburn Court.

His rottweiler and a female belonging to his girlfriend Lisa Nott were ordered out of town by the Wilmington Board of Health after an attack on a neighbor.

Additionally, animal control officer Ellen Davis issued two $25 fines for leash law violations and a $50 fine for breaking quarantine.

Both dogs have been released and taken out of town. The dogs were released last week after Public Health Director Greg Erickson received a letter from a trainer in Tilton, N.H. saying that his kennel would take the male rottweiler.

The female rottweiler, Erickson said, did not require a letter because it was not proven that she had bitten anyone, although that was what the Board of Health had voted. However, a meeting has been called for Wednesday night in Norwell, where the female dog is now kept. The dog officer in that town is said to be not pleased with the prospect the rottweiler being in that town.

The male had attacked a Roberts Road resident, Edward Boucher, who lives next door to the dog's owner, Jeff Dindo. Boucher was attacked on his own doorstep, and required 20 stitches in his arm as a result of the attack.

That attack took place while both dogs were under quarantine for a previous attack. In that incident, although both dogs took part, it is believed that only the male dog bit Mr. Boucher.

Western champ

Horse shows aren't very common in Wilmington these days. On Saturday, the Wilmington 4-H Wranglers held a small horse show at the home of 4-H leaders Robyn and Darryn Marsh. Joy Clark on "Tomahawk" was the western division champion.

Town to tighten solicitors regs

by Arlene Surprenant
In the wake of a recent murder in Woburn involving a door-to-door salesman and resulting homeowner concern, Wilmington police are having town counsel look into ways to tighten up local solicitation regulations. They are also preparing an informational flyer for homeowners advising them how best to handle solicitors and how to protect themselves from aggressive salesmen.

Police Chief Bobby Stewart said Tuesday 90 percent of solicitors in town are in magazine sales and most solicitation is done during the summer months. According to Chief Stewart, all solicitors must register with his department when they come to town so police have a record of their names, addresses, physical description, and social security numbers. Police also check with the attorney general's office to make sure the salesmen work for a legitimate business.

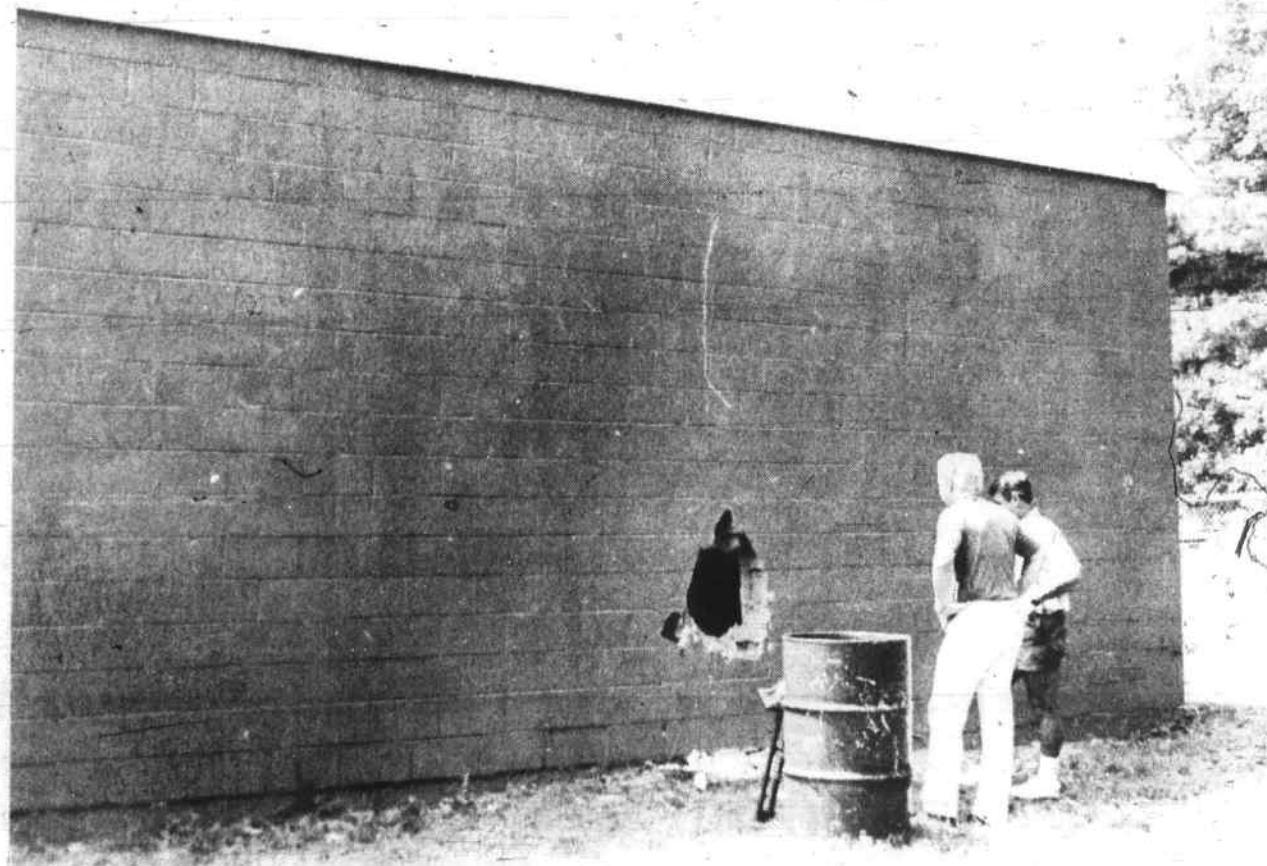

For the past three weeks, two groups have been legally registered to do business in Wilmington. They are Direct Marketing Service from Tampa, Florida, which sells chemical compounds, and American Community Services Inc. based in Indiana, which sells magazines.

Since salesmen from the two firms came to town, police have been receiving an average of 10 to 20 phone calls a day from residents with complaints and questions about the solicitors. Chief Stewart added while his men have an obligation to protect citizens from undue sales pressure, they must be careful not to step on people's constitutional rights. The police chief explained that it's particularly hard to regulate magazine sales because the solicitors are protected by their First Amendment rights. Because of this protection afforded by the U.S. Constitution, the town can't create a bylaw prohibiting salesmen from going door to door.

There are, however, several steps homeowners can take to protect themselves and keep unwanted

Hole-in-the-wall job

A half-dozen juveniles were picked up by police on Monday in connection with a break into the field house at Wilmington High School. Sometime during the weekend, thieves broke through a concrete block wall and made off with an electric cart used by the athletic trainers. Police retrieved the cart after a report that youngsters were driving it around their neighborhood. When police arrived, the youths were painting the cart. As a part of their restitution, the youngsters have been put to work washing and waxing police cruisers. Supt. of Schools Bill Fay and Athletic Director Jim Gillis are shown looking at the hole where the thieves entered the field house.

Tech offers adult electronics program

The popular electronics programs for adults through the Shawsheen Technical Institute at Shawsheen Tech will be offered again in the fall.

Both the equipment and the teachers have been credited with the success of the programs.

The course is instructed by Paul Davis assisted by Phil Snow, a former student. Davis has 23 years experience teaching in vocational-technical education including six years at Shawsheen Tech and 17 at Greater Lawrence, as well as experience at Northern Essex Community College. He also worked in industry for firms such as Raytheon, Bell Labs and Honeywell. Snow is a former truck driver who came to Shawsheen for career retraining when he was injured.

Davis said Shawsheen Tech is the only public school in the northeast offering the electronics program as a full course in computer aided instruction augmented and supported by a computer lab. Davis said Ft. Devens personnel looked at the equipment for evaluation for possible use in their electronic maintenance program. The computer aided equipment is new at Shawsheen this year, and Davis believes it is the main impetus for learning. "What keeps the students interested is the computers, not the teachers," he said. "Although," Snow added, "they like to see a smiling face once in a while."

The students agreed that the computerized program, which allows them to progress at individualized learning rates, is a highlight of the program, but they gave at least equal credit to the human part of the instruction.

"The computers are great," said Pat Blaiklock. "But if you need attention, he (Davis) is there. He will sit with you for hours, if necessary, until you understand a concept." Blaiklock said she would "tell anyone to take this course - it's been wonderful." Blaiklock said the flexible hours that allow students to put in the required four and a half hours between 3 and 10 p.m. make a big difference for working mothers and others with daytime commitments. Blaiklock, a mail carrier in Billerica, took the course in the hope of landing a post office job in electronic maintenance.

The electronics laboratory is open from 3 to 10 p.m., Monday through Thursday. Students work their four and a half required hours per day into that time frame, and around a lecture time. "Friday is an open day," said Davis, who will permit students to go in then as well, for extra help or to make up hours. Davis said students are graded according to performance "on what they've done and how well they've done it - not the time it took them." This year, the Digital Electronics program ran on Thursdays, Analog was Mondays and Wednesdays, and the Quality Control course took place on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Programs will begin in September; course and schedule details will be announced later this summer.

Affordable home sold to housing authority

by Arlene Surprenant
The newly built affordable home on Everett Avenue is officially in the hands of the Wilmington Housing Authority. The WHA is now seeking a qualified tenant to rent the three bedroom house. Executive Director Ella Belmore told this paper she is looking for a qualified family from the board's list of applicants or a transfer from another low income house in town to rent the unit.

According to Bob DiPalma, president of the Wilmington Community Development Corporation, representatives from his non-profit group and the housing authority met Friday, July 20 to pass papers on the house. The house was built by Shawsheen Tech students under the auspices of WCDC then sold to the housing authority for $80,000.

DiPalma said the house was inspected by an independent home

Board may seize subdivision bond

by Arlene Surprenant
Several problems and deficiencies in the Tracy Circle subdivision off Woburn Street has led the Wilmington Planning Board to send its concerns in writing to the developers before taking legal steps proposed by Town Counsel.

"We're making every effort to have them (developers) get their act together before we take legal action. The ball's in their court," Chairman Dave Clark confirmed Monday.

The seven-lot subdivision is being developed by John Stokes and Jeffrey Witmeyer of J & J Realty Trust in Billerica. It was first presented to the board as a preliminary plan in 1986. Residents who bought the homes have told planners they are upset because roadwork is incomplete. This, they said, impacts their own plans for completing lawns and driveways. At least one resident reportedly complained of ponding in his yard.

In their recent letter to the builders, members of the planning board listed six major problems they had with the development. These included pavement problems, improper back filling, debris left in the street area, hazardous conditions created by a catch basin frame and grate below binder grade, and standing water in drainage swales. Clark said if the defects aren't corrected, the board would follow counsel's advice and rescind its approval of the subdivision and seize the $53,046 bond put up by the builders in order to put the work out to bid.

The builders, meanwhile, had petitioned the board to release part of the surety held by the town in the amount of $25,610 so they could do the roadwork. The board explained in its letter, as a result of the town engineer's site inspection and the deficiencies found, they could not release even part of the bond at this time.

At last Tuesday's meeting of the board, the developers reportedly said they were unaware of the defects mentioned. They suggested board members and the town engineer walk the site with them. According to a source in the planning board office, several sub-contractors, angry because they have allegedly not been paid by Stokes and Witmeyer, have registered complaints at town hall.

The whole issue will be taken up again at next Tuesday's planning board meeting. Copies of all correspondence relating to the development are reportedly being sent out to concerned homeowners and other interested parties.

Tainted soil surprises concomm

by Arlene Surprenant
The discovery of a pile of soil that seems to be saturated with diesel fuel at the ICI Resins plant on Main Street took plant officials and members of the Wilmington Conservation Commission by surprise. The discovery was made during a site walk of the property last Tuesday by commissioners Gary Mercer, John White and Tom Roussell. Commissioners were concerned because the soil is close to a wetland area and it is uncertain how much of the soil is contaminated.

Conservation Administrator Eileen Flaherty said because of the fact that the soil is tainted with diesel fuel and not chemicals, it is possible one of the machine operators working on sewer excavation in the area could have brought the soil on site. It is also possible, she said, that there was an accidental spill on site. Testing is being done now to determine both the extent and source of the contamination.

Flaherty said spokesmen for ICI Resins maintain the pile of soil is outside the buffer zone and there is less than 10 gallons of oil on the pile. If this is the case, then the amount is below the quantity that has to be reported to the state.

The commissioners walked the site last week to view the deactivation of an old storage tank farm. Two weeks ago, ICI Resins presented a tank closure plan to the commission so they could remove nine underground tanks, within 100 feet of the wetland, from the property.

This is the second time contamination has been found on site. A few months ago, low levels of 1,2,4 trimethylbenzene, ethylbenzene, and xylenes were found near the railroad line. The company is already taking steps to address that problem as they prepare to build a sewer connector to tie into the town system.

HOLD ONTO DEPENDENCY EXEMPTIONS

As your children start earning money on their own, you may be at risk to lose their dependency exemptions. It's worth taking care not to let them slip away.

You can claim the exemption for your child only if you pay more than half his or her support. The key is not how much money the young person makes but how much of it gets spent; if your child saves all the earnings, you are providing all support. Close intra-family planning may be necessary to make sure the child doesn't spend more on his or her upkeep than you do - even if it means contributing to some of the child's expenses. It may cost you less than you'll save.

One important change: even if your child is a full-time student at least five months a year, once he or she is 24 years old and has a gross income of $2,000 or more, you can no longer claim a dependency exemption, no matter how much you have spent.

Feeling the pinch

Recession bad news for almost everyone

By Kevin John Sowyrda
You know the economy is in a tailspin when the New York Times runs a front page story on poor, old New England and the financial doldrums which have beset a region once nationally admired for its rapid growth and prosperity.

Massachusetts may be particularly hard hit, and even television and radio advertisements are geared toward a populace increasingly worried about their pocketbooks. A major competitor in mobile phone sales boasts that the way to get New England out of the slump is to run out and buy a car phone, which will increase your sales if you're out there hitting the pavement.

A lot of people may be hitting the pavement looking for jobs, and locally, business leaders confess that Wilmington is hardly immune from what is increasingly being identified as a recession.

"Almost every company in town is down-sizing," said Joan O'Rourke, executive director for the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, adding, "no one sees this as a short term problem."

O'Rourke said that she has not heard of any employers planning to relocate, but that the economy has triggered local layoffs and many companies are not filling positions following retirements.

"The people hardest hit right now seem to be restaurants and local retailers," said O'Rourke.

That's where the average person cuts back their spending first, and people like Arthur Aggami are feeling the pinch. Arthur operates Deli King in Tewksbury, and despite his fabulous meat loaf dinner special, business is off by about ten percent. "Business is nothing like last year," said Aggami.

Likewise for Bobby Katsikis who manages Stelio's Family Restaurant in Wilmington. "People are cutting back on the number of times they eat out and business is down about ten to fifteen percent," he said.

But one ice cream vendor is smiling. Steve Geary is scooping the business at his Meadowlands Ice Cream in Tewksbury because people seem to be cutting back on regular vacations. "We find that this year we might actually do better. People can't afford to go away as usual so they take a lot of day trips and were busy at night time," said Geary.

At Sweetheart Cup the sagging economy has triggered a reduction in the number of summer jobs available, according to Personnel Director Bob Donovan. "Summer employment is down modestly, though our business is generally stable in Massachusetts," said Donovan. Sweetheart, which has been a major employer for local residents over the years, has experienced a downturn in its food packaging business, though according to Donovan other areas are keeping the plant in reasonably fair shape.

Kevin Sowyrda

On the real-estate end of things 1990 is being viewed by brokers as the year of the buyer; but if you're selling it's been a tough road. "If you're listing a house in this town for over $200,000 it can sit there for ever, no matter how good it is," said Sharon Kelley, president and owner of Kelley and Kompany, a major real estate firm in Wilmington.

Kelley said that the economy has changed the philosophy of buying and selling, and that homeowners with property on the market are taking offers that just two years ago would have been rejected out of hand. "If the price is right it will move," said Kelley.

However, Kelley noted that even some buyers are weary because of their own anxieties with the economy. "I've had four or five buyers hold off because they were concerned that they may be laid off," said Kelley.

On the commercial side of the local real estate market developers have been particularly hard hit. "Commercial real estate in Tewks-bury is dropping one percent monthly and the vacancy rate is as high as 35 percent," said Tony Accardi, president of 1501 Realty in Tewksbury and the real estate analyst for WHHL Radio in Lowell.

We accompanied Accardi as he drove down Route 38 in Tewksbury pointing out the number of 'for sale' and 'for rent' signs. "You can't even count the number of professional condos for sale or rent in Tewksbury right now," said Accardi, who along our tour pointed to six professional condo parks where the vacancy rates are at least 20 percent.

Professional condos have been particularly hard hit by the economic slump because small businesses are leaving the area and relocating. "Small businesses are quickly moving out of state, leaving vacant offices and hurting developers behind them," said Accardi.

Williamsburg Place in Tewksbury is a classic example of a developer's nightmare and a sour local economy. Professional condos which once sold for $99,000 are presently listed at $60,000, "and that's if you can find a buyer," said Accardi.

Adding more distress to the local commercial real estate market is the new reluctance of banks to finance condos because they continue to depreciate in value.

Some developers have resorted to aggressive sales to bring in what little rental income is out there. 1501 Realty recently relocated after a developer offered twice the space at less rent. "When we were at the old office we were solicited by three condo owners offering deferred payments and other deals, which two years ago would have been outlandish," said Accardi.

For whatever reasons the average person may not shed crocodile tears for developers know feeling a financial pinch. But as one Tewksbury builder noted, "When our businesses goes down, it hurts everybody from regular carpenters and plumbers to the guy who drives the chuck wagon around to building sites."

A local banker said that the poor economy has "finally hit home" and that she has not seen things this bad in her 20 years of banking. "When payroll checks are bouncing left and right you know you're in trouble," she said, adding, "We haven't seen the worse of it yet."

Joyce Brisbois, CPA, who operates an accounting firm in Wilmington, agreed that more economic trouble may be ahead of us and that "it will take a good six months before everything settles down."

But is there any immunity to the economic slump, other than ice cream and frozen yogurt at Meadowlands in Tewksbury? You might check in with Paul Derubeis who said "Business is absolutely booming and we have a two page waiting list of customers."

Derubeis is the assistant manager at Wilmington U-HAUL.

Just visiting

Construction workers are used to sidewalk superintendents, some of whom can be "real turkeys." This one was different -- he was a real turkey, who came to visit the site of a new retaining wall and steps at a home in Wilmington. The turkey, named "Pete" lives at a nearby home with his mate Priscilla. His two favorite things are finding a nice sandy spot for a dirt bath, and going visiting. Visiting with Pete are Bill Zambenardi, Paul Durgin and Paul Zambenardi. (Photo by Bill Conlon)

WHEN LIGHTENING STRIKES

Frosting, tinting, streaking and painting are all double-process color treatments used to lighten selected areas of hair, rather than coloring the whole head. For an all-over "salt and pepper" effect, frosting is the technique of choice. When only lightened hair ends are desired, tipping (a variation of frosting) is used. When one or two wide sections of lightened hair are desired, the technique known as streaking is employed. Lastly, painting involves the application of bleach with a paintbrush or comb to the top layers of hair only, in order to give hair the appearance of natural sun-lightening. Each of these techniques offers several advantages over traditional bleaching in that they involve only limited portions of the hair and preclude any risk of scalp irritation.

Let the experts at SHAWSHEEN HAIR SALON treat your hair to the latest techniques and hair care products. We provide expert styling, cutting, coloring, perming and much more. For damaged hair, we offer Systeme Biolage, a natural hair care product by Matrix. We have the answers to all your hair needs. Visit us at 161 Shawsheen Ave., Rt. 129, Wilmington. For an appointment call (508) 658-9475. Hours: Mon 9-6, Tues 9-7, Wed & Thurs 9-9, Fri 9-8, Sat 9-5.

Please schedule a complimentary hair color analysis with our expert colorist Pam.

HINT: Frosting, tipping, streaking and painting do not require repeating as frequently as regular bleaching.

Crazy, crazy

Bermuda: An island where time stands still

by Arlene Surprenant
I make it a point, with rare exceptions, never to go back to the same vacation spot twice. Bermuda is one of those exceptions.

It's been three weeks since our visit and, even now, my mind is filled with the sights, well-ordered beauty, and the people who make this place memorable. As soon as your plane touches down in St. George, the pace slows. The line for Customs in the oppressive heat seems endless, but it's only a matter of time before you're through and into the care of a taxi driver just waiting to crush your luggage into the smallest space possible.

Native Bermudians do not hurry. You get the impression that time stands still on this sun-drenched island. There are the same turquoise waters and secluded beaches, the same reliance on mopeds and pink buses for transportation, the same palm-filled vistas as there were 21 years ago. Flowers abound: the orange-red of the glorious poinciana tree; the lush colors of oleander, hibiscus, and bougainvillea; and the deep pink and soft lavender of other sub-tropical plants. Wherever you go on the island, the profusion of flowers and assorted trees and cacti overwhelm. It's heady stuff for someone used to the stately pines, high mountain peaks, and green forests of New England.

Our trip was shared with John and Rocca Nardine, former neighbors from New York. We all felt one of the most relaxing rides was the two dollar ferry trip from Lantana Colony Club in Somerset, where we stayed, to the Dockyard in the West End and Bermuda's capital city of Hamilton. Only from the water could you see how picturesque the island really is. Pastel colored homes with special roofs to catch rainwater are built in the hillside along the water's edge. Causeways and bridges connect the various islands to the mainland. All types of boats, from graceful sailing sloops to pleasure craft from faraway places, fill the horizon. On the glass-bottom boat tour the first day, we were awed by the colorful parrot fish and the rows of coral that for centuries have posed a threat to passing ships.

In the middle of the island are the pink beaches and luxury hotels for which Bermuda is famous. The sand contains bits of red coral that have washed up to shore, thus the label pink. The color of the water on the South Shore is a never-to-be-forgotten azure blue and so clear you can see right to the bottom. All of the hotels we passed on sightseeing excursions, from the Reefs and Elbow Beach to the incredible Southampton Princess, are landmarks well-known for catering to the vacationing tourists' every whim. We much preferred the smaller cottage colonies that dotted the island, especially Lantana and the exclusive Cambridge Beaches that boasts at least six private coves for swimming and water sports.

Convenience is the reason we gave in to some misgivings and rented two-seater mopeds for three days. It's impossible to rent cars in Bermuda. You either ride the buses that run every 15 minutes from one zone to the next or hop a motor scooter and join the locals. In retrospect, except for one close call with a taxi and a fear of the stone walls that loomed around many curves, the mopeds proved a fun way to travel. We would set out early morning and eventually stop at one of the least crowded beaches in the afternoon for a much needed swim.

In our week-long travels we met many people like the school children out for an excursion to St. John's Bay and an older English couple who advised us not to miss the beauty of England's Lake District and the Scottish Highlands. Lantana's owner John Young hosted a blister(cocktail) party on the terrace so we could meet other visitors to the island. We met Lou and Betty, a couple from New York who were also celebrating their anniversary, and the colorful Town Crier of St. George. There was also our busboy, who made it a point to keep up a running conversation each morning as he tried to keep up with the demand for "more coffee please." And backyard gardening

by Hugh Wiberg
The rain dance has been cancelled.

That unexpected (and unforecast) deluge of last Wednesday saved many area gardens and significantly helped the rest of us. My gauge in North Wilmington showed that almost three inches fell in 10 hours, which represents an average month's precipitation.

Even assuming that a third of the rain may have run off, we received enough of a benefit to carry us for two weeks.

And that is part of the fun of living in New England. The unpredictability of weather conditions surely does make life interesting.

This coming weekend, August 3 to 5, is an important time for vegetable growers. It represents our final opportunity to fill in those vacant spots appearing in our gardens with some fast maturing crops. We have about 60 days (give or take 10) until that inevitable first frost happens. Over the last 10 years the first killing frost in Wilmington and Tewksbury has happened on October 4. The range has been as early as September 28 and as late as October 13. I like to put in a last planting of green beans the first weekend of August, since most bean varieties mature in 55 to 60 days.

This is also the right time to sow seeds of carrots, beets and parsnips, since these root crops, although requiring more than two months to reach full size, are remarkably frost tolerant and will keep on growing right through October. Although these late planted beets and carrots will not reach the full size pictured in the seed catalogues, they will get to half size which, when all is said and done, is the very best size for maximum taste and texture.

In eight to nine weeks, your carrots should be three or four inches long and the beets will be golf ball size. As all experienced gardeners know, half sized vegetables are a gourmet treat. Super size counts only if you are growing giant pumpkins for contest purposes. Speaking of which; the Seventh Annual All New England Pumpkin Contest will be held at the Topsfield Fair on Monday October 8 (Columbus Day) starting at 10:30 a.m. Since Mahoney's in Tewksbury sold several hundred Atlantic Giant pumpkin plants in May, I would expect there must be a few growers in this area who will wind up with pumpkins weighing in excess of 200 pounds. Anyone requiring additional information on this event can phone me evenings at 658-5852, or drop me a note in care of the Town Crier.

Quick note to tomato growers. If your plants are showing signs of disease, don't give up on them. My 15 Jumbo and Jet Stars showed some early blight in June but with five applications of an all purpose fungicide four days apart, the plants all survived and are looking good. My largest tomatoes are nearly tennis ball size, and I'm guessing I'll pick the first ripe one around August 5.

Next week — the mailbag runneth over.

Ever since Noah, an probably before that, it has been common practice for people to have pets in pairs, usually one of each sex. Just about all animals do better when they have a friend of the same species around. Two birds do better than one. Good zoos keep animals in pairs, etc. Well, as strange as it may sound, some fruit trees also like company. They tend to produce more and better fruit if they have a neighbor near by. For example, a peach tree will do better with another peach tree planted within bee flying distance.

This is the time of year when people wish they had a few peach trees! For orchard advice, come to A & M NURSERY AND FLORIST, 911 East Street in Tewksbury. We're convenient to downtown, off Rte. 93, and offer full-service landscape design, all you need to plan, plant and grow anything from fruit trees to a copious vegetable crop. Phone 851-4472. Open at 8 every morning, till 5:30 Mon-Sat. 8-4 Sundays. Shop early in cool of the day.

HELPFUL HINT: Protect your fruit crop by picking it promptly as soon as it is ripe.

Art exhibits at Patten Library

Tewksbury's Patten Public Library is featuring winners of the Tewksbury Arts Lottery Council's college scholarships in continuing art exhibits during June, July and August.

Currently, the works of Dennis Curran, Jr. and Wayne Fishman are on display at the library. The works featured include comics, cartooning, and caricatures. Both students are June graduates of Tewksbury Memorial High School.

The scholarships which are presented to Dennis and Wayne by the Tewksbury Arts Lottery Council will help further their training in the fall. Dennis will be attending the New England School of Art and Design in Boston, while Wayne will be attending the Art Institute of Fort Lauderdale, in Florida. The courses being taken at both schools are in the fields of advertising and design.

These two young men express appreciation to the Arts Lottery Council and its chairman, Betty Scott, for their recognition. They also credit Daniel Rogacki of the Tewksbury Memorial High School Art Department for the many hours of work with the students and the help he has given to them over the years. The art department's chairman, Donald Sullivan, is thanked for the push, praise and trust given to Dennis and Wayne.

During the month of June, the library featured works by Brian Linnehan, who will be attending Framingham State College in the fall to study graphic arts. Brian is a June graduate of Shawheen Tech.

Vacation bible school

The First Baptist Church of Wilmington has invited the children of the community and their friends to Vacation Bible School (V.B.S.). This one week program will begin Monday, August 6, and continue through Friday, August 10 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. daily.

This year, we will step into the Friendimension and catch the excitement of building and bonding Christ-centered friendships in a busy, Me-centered world. We'll learn how to make friends and how to be a friend too!

Children ages three through those entering grade seven will find fun filled mornings and joyful singing, Bible stories and activities, crafts, refreshments and recreation. V.B.S. will be held at the church's Abundant Life Christian School, 17 Boutwell St., Wilmington.

The closing program and parents night will be held at the school Friday evening, Aug. 10.

For information and advance registration stop by the school any day between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. or call 658-8584.

CPR classes in Wilmington

Knowing cardiopulmonary resuscitation, or CPR, can mean the difference between life and death. Winchester Hospital's Education Department now offers CPR classes to the community. These classes teach participants how to perform CPR and the Heimlich maneuver; a technique used to dislodge foreign material from the breathing passages.

Instructors demonstrate CPR through mannequin practice and a special film presentation. Participants who have successfully completed the course will receive a one-year certificate from the American Heart Association.

This CPR course is offered in two part classes - September 40 from 6 to 10 p.m. and September 12 from 6 to 10 p.m. at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington. The CPR course fee is $40 per participant. Businesses and organizations may call the Hospital's Education Department to schedule classes for members or employees. To register call the Education Department at Winchester Hospital (617) 756-2220.

Library activities

The movie, "Pippi goes on board," will be shown at the Patten Public Library Thursday, August 2 at 2:30 p.m. for children ages seven and up. The film will last 83 minutes.

On Tuesday, August 7, a craft program will be held. The children, ages six through 12, will make pop-up ghosts. The materials needed will be supplied by the Friends of the Library. The program begins at 3 p.m.

Class of '65 reunion set for Oct. 19, 20

The Class of 65 of Wilmington High School will hold its 25th reunion at the Colonial Hilton on the weekend of October 19 and 20. The weekend will include a Friday night reception and a banquet on Saturday night.

The committee still has a list of names of people who have not been located. In many cases, people on the list are found not far away — it is simply a case of not having the current address. Also note that women's names are maiden names. Those still not located are:

If you see your name on the list, or if you know the current address of anyone on the list, please contact Frances (DeLisle) Fay at 508-470-1486 or write to her at 173 High St., Andover, MA 01810.

Tewksbury concert on the common

Tewksbury's Homecoming Committee will sponsor another Sunday afternoon band concert on the Tewksbury Town Common, on Sunday, August 5, 1990 at 2:30. This is one in a continuing series of summer musical concerts.

The Friends of the Tewksbury Library will be providing refreshments during the band concert. The group will be selling ice cream sundaes featuring a variety of toppings for $2.00 each. Cold drinks will also be available.

Proceeds from the refreshments will benefit the group's museum pass fund, which annually renews family passes to Boston area museums for the use of library patrons.

Area residents are urged to mark the date on their calendars now, and take the whole family. Take a blanket to sit on, or folding lawn chairs. There is plenty of free parking available. So go and enjoy a New England tradition: concerts on the common, Tewksbury style!

MCC offers word processing

Word processing, an intensive 15 hour course is offered through Middlesex Community College's Open Campus: Division of Continuing Education/Community Services. Morning, afternoon and evening sessions are offered beginning Monday, August 13. Each class meets for five three hour sessions. Classes will meet Monday, Wednesday and Thursday of the first week and Monday and Wednesday of the second week. A new session begins every two weeks at the MCC Burlington Campus, Terrace Hall Avenue, Burlington.

This individualized program requires a 40-45 WPM typing ability. Class size is limited other and each student spends all instructional time on Wang equipment. Skills learned can be applied to many other types of equipment.

This short term program offers an effective way to upgrade and improve skills that are in high demand in business and industry. Call (617) 272-7342, ext. 3291.

A free information session regarding the Software Technical Writing Program at Middlesex Community College will be held Tuesday, Aug. 7 at the Burlington Campus at 7 p.m.

The technical writing program trains participants to be software technical writers and editors. The eight month, part time evening program has successfully placed its graduates at over 70 companies with salaries averaging $29,000.

The next cycle of programs begins in September. Call (617) 272-7342, ext. 3291.

Wilmington senior topics

Council meets August 6

The August Council on Aging meeting will be held in the function room of the Buzzell Senior Citizen Center Monday, August 6 starting at 1 p.m. Many subjects of interest to all of us, especially the budget, which we will be continually defending this year and years to come. Money is needed to keep the senior citizen center a focal point for the town elderly where they come seeking help, activity or championship through the many programs and services available to them.

For many seniors the center is where they spend most of their days. For others it may be a day or two or an hour or two, but for all of us now it is important to be involved in keeping it as it is today for the many seniors who will be coming after us. The Council members alone can do little. It is up to all of us to be involved. By attending the meeting every month is the best way to keep abreast of how the elderly are being serviced by their town, state and federal government. It involves only a couple of hours out of the entire month.

Legal advisor

The legal advisor from the Cambridge / Somerville Elder Legal Service will be at the Center Wednesday, August 8 from 10 a.m. to noon. She will help seniors with problems they may have with Social Security, SSI, Medicare, food stamps, Medicaid, elder abuse, share living and elderly housing.

Life line

I received many calls on the Life Line article I had in last week's paper. Which was good. Most of the calls were from seniors wanting to take the Life Line program but had no family member near them or none at all. Their friends have passed on or are ill themselves. They told me they did not know their neighbors well enough. Any senior in this category during the day can give the Senior Center as a contact. We are open from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. During the evening hours the Life Line operator will call the police station when they cannot contact you by telephone. There is no reason that you cannot have a Life Line button on you person if you live alone. The program director will help you get contact persons to call when they receive a call from you. The important thing is to get the button as quickly as you can for the security it will give you.

Minibus

We have a minibus on the road every day from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. It is available for senior citizens in the town with no transportation available to them. If you live all alone or with spouse in a house and neither are able to drive a car to shop for food or medication. We can take you to the store for food, or medication once a week. This does not include seniors living in Deming Way as Demoulas has a bus take seniors in the project shopping Wednesday mornings. If a senior lives with a family member in an inlaw apartment we feel the family member can take a parent shopping as food and drug stores are open until 9 p.m. Monday to Saturday and open on Sundays. As for medical appointments or other elderly related travel we realize family members are not always available during the day hours, therefore if you do not have a car and no one who lives at your house is home to take you. We will transport you to your medical appointment.

Please make medical appointments in the morning hours if possible. With the horrendous traffic in Wilmington and surrounding towns it is difficult for the driver to get you and all other seniors to and from your appointments in the six and a half hours the minibus is on the road. If you are confined to your house and have no one living with you, with a prescription to get filled, call the center we will do everything we can to get it filled for you. The same goes for a senior who would like to go to the high school for a hot meal and has no way to get there call the center, we will have you picked up.

With so many seniors to transport everyday seniors will have to understand it is a minibus not a taxi. You may have to be picked up much earlier or later than you would like. But so far we have managed to get everyone to appointments and home in pretty good time. It should be remembered the transportation is free there is no charge even if your medical appointment is in a surrounding town.

Don't call 911

Public safety officials are reminding local residents that Wilmington is not connected to the 911 emergency telephone system.

Should a caller dial 911, a live operator will answer, but the message will have to be relayed to the appropriate department.

For a direct response, callers in need of emergency assistance should use the following numbers:

Wilmington

Police 658-3331
Fire & Ambulance 658-3200

Dog report

The Wilmington dog officer is presently holding the following dog.

Female black poodle with white on chest and right front paw, wearing blue rhinestone collar and flea collar. Picked up on Cobalt Street (off Salem Street) on July 29.

The animal control officer may be contacted for adoptions by calling 658-7845. For dog complaints, contact the Wilmington Police Department on its business line, 658-5071.

solicitors at bay. One of the best approaches, said Chief Stewart, is to hang a visible sign at the beginning of their property stating "No Solicitation, No Trespassing." This is the most effective and enforceable approach since trespassing is a misdemeanor and any trespasser who refuses to move in police presence can legally be arrested.

In addition, police advise that neighbors keep an eye out for each other and any strangers in their neighborhood. Chief Stewart said when a salesman becomes too aggressive and refuses to leave within a reasonable time, citizens should contact the police.

Though on occasion police have been forced to escort "intimidating" and aggressive salesmen out of town, for the most part, said Chief Stewart, they haven't had any confrontations with solicitors. The official added that despite some citizen fears that solicitors may be responsible for a number of break-ins in Wilmington, that just hasn't been the case. He assured residents there has been no appreciable increase in break-ins and robberies this summer since the door to door sales force came to town.

Wilmington police news

During the week ending July 31, Wilmington police offices responded to 38 alarms, 15 reports of disorderly conduct, five domestic problems and 10 non-criminal complaints.

Twenty arrests and four protective custody detentions were made. Other departments were assisted six times, 14 bank escorts were made, four burglaries were reported along with seven larcenies the three persons were reported missing.

Twenty-one public service calls were ordered, two threat complaints were taken and two restraining orders were issued. Eight traffic accidents were investigated along with eight trailbike complaints and eight incidents of vandalism are still under investigation.

Arrests

Tuesday at 2:30 a.m. Officer David Sugrue arrested four Lynn juveniles and a Roxbury youth at Eastgate Plaza. Michael Simms, Roxbury and the juveniles were all charged with using a motor vehicle without authority.

Officer Larry Redding arrested James Williamson of Roxbury Tuesday afternoon charging him with shoplifting at Lucci's.

The Harvest Gift Shop in Wilmington Plaza was robbed Tuesday afternoon by a white male who showed a knife to the clerk. Insp. Jim Peterson is investigating.

Dana Suprenant, 9 Cross St., Wilmington was arrested Tuesday evening by officers Axelrod and Desmond on a Reading warrant. He was turned over to Reading officers for processing.

Wednesday morning Officer Joe Harris, while on traffic enforcement, arrested Elvis Cooper of Roxbury on motor vehicle offenses.

At 2 a.m. Thursday Officer Paul Chalifour arrested Michael McMillan of Chelmsford charging him with operating under the influence. He was bailed for an appearance in Woburn Court.

Officer Jon Shepard arrested Charles E. Holden of Winthrop Thursday on charges of operating after suspension of his driver's license.

Friday morning Chief Stewart arrested Peter Duguay of Nashua on the basis of a Groton police warrant.

Paul Kelly of 176 Grove St., Reading was arrested by Officers Mauriello and Miller Friday evening on a default warrant. He was held on $300 bail.

Early Saturday morning Officer

Bob Richter and Sgt. Palmer arrested David Cullinane of Woburn charging him with operating under the influence.

Shortly after 6 p.m. Wednesday the Silver Lake Pharmacy was robbed by a white male using a knife to threaten the clerk. Inspector Mike McKenna obtained a warrant for the arrest of a suspect in the robbery Friday. It is believed the same suspect has hit several other stores in the surrounding area.

Officer Mike Begonis arrested Steven Michaud of Dorchester Avenue Saturday night and charged him with driving after suspension of his operator's license.

Early Sunday Officers Neville and Sugrue drove to Malden to arrest Herbert Smith of that city on a default warrant issued by Woburn District Court. He was bailed for an appearance in Woburn court.

Monday evening Officer Tom Miller and Juvenile Officer Pat King arrested six local juveniles after investigating a break at the field house behind the high school. The boys, ages 13 to 14 were all charged with breaking and entering and larceny of property valued at over $250.

After meeting with parents of all the youths they were admitted to the diversion program for juvenile offenders administered by Juvenile Officer King. All the property was returned, and restitution has been arranged.

At 7:30 a.m. Tuesday Officer Paul Chalifour arrested Reynaldo Nieves, 23, of Woburn after a computer check revealed his license to be suspended.

OF
GEORGE KEVERIAN'S
ASSISTANT MAJORITY LEADER AND HIS TRANSPORTATION CRISIS

At 12:01 AM last Saturday, the first six cents of the ten-cent per gallon gasoline tax increase was imposed upon Massachusetts motorists courtesy of the Democratic leadership of your state legislature.

This increase is supposed to be "earmarked" for a "deteriorating infrastructure." But can anyone who buys gasoline afford to trust the Democratic leadership which has only earmarked money for waste and inefficiency for years?

Our own transportation crisis is the Town Center Bridge and the failure of the incumbent to offer any solutions after 14 years in office. What can we expect from George Keverian's Assistant Majority Leader by giving him two more years and a 91% increase in the gas tax?

You have not heard the last of these highway bandits. On January 1, 1991, the gasoline tax will increase by another fourcents per gallon. The New Year will greet you with another pay cut, which the incumbent has done nothing about.

Each time you fill your gas tank remember the chaos on Beacon Hill, remember the fiscal madness, remember the failure of the incumbent to stop the gas tax and address our own local transportation crisis.

This November defeat the gas tax and those who lacked the clout to stop it.

Major League girls

Girls one game short

The Wilmington Major League (11-12) girls' softball team fell one game shy of another state championship with a heartbreaking 8-3 loss to Somerset in Mass. All-Star competition last week.

The Wilmington girls won the District 13 Championship for the third year in a row and then defeated District 15 champ Ipswich with a convincing 15-5 win at Rotary Park.

Renee Vachon pitched the stars to their victory over Ipswich, allowing only three hits while walking one and striking out three.

Leading the offensive barrage for Wilmington were Nicole Dussault (two for four, two RBI's), Shannon Lyman (two for three), Jen Mullins (two for two, two RBI's), Jill Branley (two for two, two RBI's), Laurie Johnson (two for two) and Vachon (two for four).

Also collecting hits in the 16 hit, 15 run barrage were Lisa Southmayd, Darlene Scarfo, Melanie Johnson and Charisse Thresher.

Playing superb defense and stifling any rally attempt Ipswich made were Amy Surran, Jill Lojek, Kelly Muse and Jackie Hayden.

Wilmington traveled to Somerset Thursday for the right to play for the state championship, only to have their dream end with the tough 8-3 loss.

Despite getting only two hits, Somerset was very opportunistic in scoring their eight runs, taking advantage of some pitching control problems and some untimely and uncharacteristic poor defense by the Wilmington team.

Wilmington out-hit the opponent 6-2 but could not get the key hit when they needed to, as they had all series long.

The Wilmington girls should be congratulated for their outstanding effort throughout the tournament, as they far exceeded anyone's expectations.

The Wilmington Little League would like to extend its thanks to all the parents for their time, effort and support of the children throughout, and to the many fans and supporters who followed the team through Stoneham, Saugus, Woburn, Ipswich and Somerset.

Also, a big thanks to the Town Crier for the outstanding coverage of the girls throughout the year and tournament.

Lyman earns Raiders' berth

Wilmington's Kerri Lyman is a member of the 18 and under Peabody Raiders Softball team that recently qualified for the National A.A.U. Softball Tournament, to be held August 9-13 in Lodi, California.

The Raiders placed second to the Bay State Bullets of Stoughton this past weekend at the New England Regionals in Norwalk, Conn.

Lyman, who just pitched the Wilmington 13-15 year old Little League All-Stars to the District 13 championship before losing to Lawrence in B1-District play, is a pitcher/third baseman for the Raiders and is the youngest member of the team.

Tewksbury Youth Football signups August 6

Tewksbury Youth Football has announced that signups and practices for players will begin Monday, August 6.

The football program is open to all players between the ages of eight and 13. All ages are determined as of September 1, 1990.

The cheerleader signups and practice will start Monday, August 13. All signups and practices will be held at the state fields at the Livingston Street complex in Tewksbury from 6 to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

Tewksbury Youth Football is organized into two traveling teams and four intown teams. The Midget A team is open for 12 and 13-year-old players with a maximum weight of 135 pounds. The age is determined as of September 1, 1990.

The Junior Midget B team is open to all 11 and 12 year old players. The maximum weight limit in this category is 110 pounds. Again, the age determination is as of September 1, 1990. Both traveling teams participate in the Massachusetts Youth Football Association (MYFA).

The Tewksbury Youth Football In-Town Program is being operated for the fifth consecutive year and is open to all eight to 11-year-olds.

There are four teams in the In-Town Program. The maximum weight limit is 140 pounds. First year 11 year olds may elect to play in this program along with other 11 year olds as determined by the board of directors and parents of participating players.

The Tewksbury Youth Football Player and Cheerleader participation has been steadily increasing each year. The program's success has been due to the excellent cooperation of the many volunteers who have given their time and energies.

All coaches and board members are very optimistic and encouraged with the numerous positive aspects of the Tewksbury Youth Football Program. The initial registration was very good, with nearly 75 players and 85 cheerleaders signed up.

The current registration fees have been established at $50 per child and $90 maximum per family. The registration fee includes all equipment except personal items such as mouth pieces, shorts, socks, shoes, etc.

Tewksbury Youth Football invites all players interested to go down to the State Field at the Livingston Street Complex Monday, August 6 at 6 p.m. to register and start practice.

Wilmington Senior League stars

Wilmington fields strong stars

The Wilmington Senior Softball All Stars fielded a strong team this year, composed of returning District 13 Champs Stacey Gillis, Jenna Powers, Kerri Lyman, Mary Spencer, Lee Iannachino and Adrienne Fay.

The team added Kristi Lyman and Laurie Southmayd from the 11-12 year old State Champs of 1989 and rounded the team out with Carrie Tarantino, Leanne Tarantino, Kerry Bowlby, Alyssa Georgelis and Lynette Berger.

The team was coached by Karen Evans, Cheryl Evans, David Surrette and assisted by Harry Powers.

They opened their title defense with a very convincing romp over Wakefield, 19-7.

This game featured four innings of no-hit pitching by Kerry Lyman, three hits by Mary Spencer, and two each by Kristi Lyman, Laurie Southmayd, Kerri Lyman, Jenna Powers and Kerry Bowlby.

Lee Iannachino and Jenna Powers had four RBI's each while Kristi Lyman had three stolen bases.

This set up a rematch of last year's finale against Woburn American, at Woburn.

Wilmington had not won at the Senior League level in Woburn in five years, but this year was payback time.

The offensive star was Stacey Gillis, going three for four. The seniors got one in the first, two in the third on hits by Stacey Gillis, Laurie Southmayd and Jenna Powers, answered a two-run American rally with two more in the fourth with Carrie Tarantino crushing a triple to the left field power alley, and added five in the sixth on hits by Leanne Tarantino, Mary Spencer, Kerri Lyman and Laurie Southmayd.

They pushed two more across in the seventh and wound up needing them all as Woburn took advantage of walks, errors and two timely hits to make it a close game at 13-12.

Kristi Lyman hurled six strong innings, allowing three runs (one earned) on four hits, while walking seven and striking out seven.

This win advanced Wilmington into the title game against the Americans, after they eliminated the cross town rival nationals.

Wilmington came back with Kerri Lyman and she continued to dominate, going the distance in a 15-0 pasting of a gritty American team.

Enroute to the one-hitter, Kerri struckout 11, walked five and stranded three.

Wilmington pulled off two squeeze plays, plating five runs around a suicide squeeze in the first and six runs around a safety squeeze in the second inning.

The offense was provided by Mary Spencer and Kristi Lyman with two hits each and Kerry Lyman, Jenna Powers, and Alyssa Georgelis with a hit apiece.

There were two fine defensive plays in the game, one by Jenna Powers in centerfield after diving and just missing the bloop single that tipped off the end of her glove, she made a great running catch over her head in straight away center to preserve the shutout in the fourth inning.

The second was turned in by Alyssa Georgelis at firstbase in the seventh, grabbing a line drive over her head and doubling up the runner on first.

Lee Iannachino and Stacey Gillis had two stolen bases each, and Kristi Lyman, Kerri Lyman and Alyssa Georgelis had two RBI's each.

Wilmington had swept to the District 13 title for the second time in two years and moved on to face South Lawrence in single elimination state tournament action in Lawrence.

The defending state champs were not as potent as last year's team, but they still gave Wilmington fits. The hometown team went into the contest a little overconfident and found itself down by three runs after two and a half innings.

The wake-up call came and Wilmington came back with two in the third on a walk and a stolen base by Stacy Gillis, a double by Laurie Southmayd and a squeeze bunt by Kerri Lyman.

The locals answered with two more in the fourth on two out walks to Alyssa Georgelis and Stacey Gillis, along with a throwing error and a double by Kristi Lyman.

Lawrence notched two in the fifth and the game winner in the sixth on an error.

This team was a very dedicated group of young athletes with a single purpose - to win.

Unfortunately their talent could not overcome their misuses, and that could have cost them a shot at a state title. The coaches enjoyed working with them and wish them good luck in their careers next year.

McTire pounds Jera-Lyn, 10-4

McTire 10 Jera-Lyn 4

McTire collected 10 runs on 12 hits as they beat the Jera-Lyn team by a score of 10-4.

Frank Ingram, Bob Dolan, Bobby McInnis and Dave Fullerton all collected two hits apiece for Mac. Tommy Hamilton pitched well enough for the win.

Rocco's 14 B and B 13

In this extremely close game, Rocco's barely won it by a late score from B and B.

Steve Carlan was the star for Rocco's, going 4-5 with an inside the park homerun, a double and two singles.

For B and B, who collected seven of their 13 runs in the last inning, Mark Peters belted another homerun.

Lions Club 9 Stelio's 7

Carl Uggerholt supplied a three run shot in the seventh inning to help the Lions win another game.

Lions bats were alive as they smacked out 14 hits off Stelio's. For Stelio's, Wally Welding had two hits, including a triple.

Stelio's 12 Jera-Lyn 9

Kenny Sugarman had three hits for Stelio's as they beat Jera-Lyn, 12-9.

John O'Melia also smacked a double in the fifth to put Stelio's on top for good.

Jera-Lyn had 18 hits, but could not find a way to win. Even Jim Cardinale and Andy Parker's six hits among them couldn't find a way.

Charlie's 15 McTire 8

Charlie's eight run third inning helped them to win their fourth straight game.

Rusty Huebner and John Amato had three hits each for Charlie's. Mike Boudreau collected three hits for the losing cause.

Charlie's 12 Jera-Lyn 6

Charlie's bats were alive again as they pounded out 12 hits, including a three-run double by John Chiampa in the fourth inning.

Dana Gilardi went 4-4 with four singles for Jera-Lyn.

B and B 5 McTire 0

Brian Phillips once again was the offensive star for B and B as he had two doubles as B and B shutout McTire, 5-0.

Paul Laboissiere pitched superbly, giving up seven hits and two walks.

Lions Club 16 Rocco's 0

The Lions Club pounded out 17 hits which included eight runs in the first in which the first eight batters reached base with a basehit.

Ernie Poole was the star, getting a double, a triple, four RBI's and

Reds nip Peter Fuller

Reds 4 Peter Fuller 3

The Reds spotted Peter Fuller a 3-0 lead, but in the fourth the Reds scored four runs to pull out the win on a pair of wild pitches.

Peter Fuller 6 Reds 2

Reds batters carried the momentum, but couldn't hold onto it, as Peter Fuller scored six runs in the middle innings to secure the victory.

Augustine's 8 Reds 5

The Reds faced former Wilmington pitcher Phil Stephens, but couldn't get more than one run against him as Augustine's got eight runs and held on to win.

Holovak & Coughlin 3

Reds 1

Reds bats continued to slump as Wilmington got only four hits to spoil a fine pitching performance by Tom Langlois as playoff hopes got slimmer.

Upcoming games

Reds at Wakefield, Sunday, Aug. 5; 5 p.m.

The Wilmington Astros finished their Northeast League season at 10-7 as Tom Ducey had the game winning hit in the final game as the Astros beat Lowell, 4-3.

Lions Club 17 Charlie's 4

In the last four games, the Lions Club's bats were making more noise than the 4th of July fireworks as they banged out 21 hits and 17 runs off Charlie's pitchers.

Tom Pazyra (4-4), Carl Uggerholt (3-4) and Dennis Savosik with three RBI's supplied enough offense for the Lions to get the win.

Stelio's 8 Rocco's 2

Peter Gilson and Eddie Collins supplied two doubles, a triple and three RBI's between themselves to help Stelio's beat Rocco's, 8-2.

John O'Melia pitched well to get the win. Steve Carlan was (4-4) the pitcher in a losing cause.

Over 30

Joe Barry's 10 Rose's 7

Bobby Woods (solo homerun), Larry Cushing (2-4) and Billy Sinopoli (2-4) all helped Joe Barry's to beat Rose's, 10-7. Dave Alessandrini had two hits for Rose's.

Joe Barry's 21 Winston's/Coombs 8

Larry Cushing went 5-5, including an inside-the-park homerun, a double and two singles which included the game ending hit and six runs batted. Joe Barry's also banged out 20 hits.

Rec coming events

Pinetree Park Playground
Activity abounds at the Recreation Department's summer playground program held behind Town Hall.

Last week was highlighted by an ice cream treat on Tuesday, a watered out Water Country trip on Wednesday, a day at the beach (Silver Lake) on Thursday and a field trip to Wamesit Bowling Lanes on Friday.

This week, beginning with Monday, July 30, the playgrounders produced monster masks of the most hideous variety. On Wednesday, plans call for a trip to Chuck-E-Cheese. Thursday will bring the annual Police Association Beach Day at Silver Lake. Playgrounders, their families and friends are all invited to take part in the festivities. There will be swimming races, sand castle competition and a giant cookout for all beach-goers.

Next week's activities will begin with a trip to Water Country in Portsmouth, N.H.

Theatre discounts
The Wilmington Recreation Department has discount tickets for the Showcase Cinemas, good in Woburn, Lawrence and Revere. Call the Recreation office, 658-4270 for details.

Florida discounts

Discounts are available for many Florida attractions, including Magic Kingdom, Epcot, MGM Studios, SeaWorld, Cypress Gardens, Church Street Station, Wet 'N Wild, Medieval Times and Universal Studios. Stop by to see if any new discounts are available.

More discounts

Discounts are also available for Edaville Railroad, Canobie Lake Park, Riverside Park and Whalom Park. Stop by the Rec Office

Monday through Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. to see what's available.

Beach tags on sale

The Recreation Department is selling season beach tags in the Recreation Office at Town Hall weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The tags are for Wilmington residents who plan to use the public beach at Silver Lake. Cost is $15 per adult (age 18 and over) and $5 per child (ages three to 17). There is a $2 day fee for guests and those without their tags. Daily fees are paid at the beach.

accompanied by a copy of the player's birth certificate.

A medical release form signed by the player's doctor is also required. For further information contact the people at the bottom of this story. The first practice starts August 1. Hope to see you there. Ray Ventura, president, Bob Gillis, director of football operations; 658-5913.

Harrison finishes strong

Fifteen-year-old Jessica Harrison of Wilmington finished her recent gymnastics season on a successful note. Jessica, the daughter of Terri and Bill Harrison, is entering her sophomore year at Wilmington High School this fall.

Jessica's training schedule at Northeast Gymnastics continues to be four or five days a week, four hours a day and it is certainly paying off.

Her improved skill level helped her move ahead to the USGF Level Nine State Championships.

The United States Gymnastics Federation is a program in America which ranges from Level one through 10 to the Elite.

Along with advancing to this level, one of Jessica's biggest accomplishments was capturing first place at the New England AAU Championships on vault, an event where her dynamic ability is displayed.

In addition, she placed second on bars and a solid sixth place in the all-around competition.

Flying bug-zappers?

by Bill Conlon

Let's design a useful animal.

Those of a science-fictional bent (moi?) might design a critter to eat disposable diapers and urinate unleaded gasoline, but no.

Nice, but too far fetched. Instead, let's make something simpler.

To be beneficial, our new critter will eat bugs, notably mosquitoes, by the pound. It would have to be small, to keep from annoying us, so nothing bigger than our hand. And to eat bugs efficiently, it will need to fly.

Frogs eat bugs, but flying frogs is just too weird. We'll make this a mammal, warm and cuddly.

Of course, a flying bug-zapper is pretty weird anyway, so we'll make it nocturnal. That way, our little bug eater will never be seen, since it comes out after dark and go back to its lair at sunrise.

Strange noises in the night sky may be upsetting, so let's make the critter silent, and to avoid the mess and aggravation of breeding, we'll make it wild.

Anything else? We might as well give it hibernation, since there are no bugs in winter. There - perfect!

Imagine the night sky, full of our silent mosquito munchers, quietly eating bugs while we're asleep, and they all disappear by dawn. Sounds too good to be true, doesn't it.

Well, if you haven't guessed by now, God already designed such a beneficial animal, and it rules the night sky right now. Every time you set foot outdoors after sunset, they're circling your head, eating all the bugs they can find.

They are bats. Wonderful things. For countless generations, people have hated and despise bats, with no good reason.

-- Bats do not get tangled in your hair. Have you, or anybody you've ever spoken with in person, had a bat get caught in their hair? No. That old legend hasn't one shred of truth to it. It's a lie.

-- Bats are less susceptible to the rabies virus than those skunks and raccoons that dump your trash at night. Occasionally they do become rabid, but very, very rarely.

Bats do not drink your blood. Only one species of bat feeds on blood, and they're located in South America. Those critters take a tiny nip out of a paw, or foot, then lap up the blood as it oozes out, helped by an anticoagulant in their saliva. There are no vampire bats in North America, period.

-- Bats sometimes enter a house, but only by a mistake in searching out new living quarters. They may swoop down the chimney, or into an open window, but they'll quickly try to get the hell out of there. Give them a chance to leave and they'll take it, every time.

And those are the bad things said about bats -- all lies and myths. The realities are much better.

Bats, as we all learned in school, use a form of sonar to locate prey in total darkness. Lab tests show that bats are fully capable of flying full speed through a room full of obstacles, using only sonar, without bumping into anything. Amazing.

But they are not blind. Their eyes are fully functional, and they can see quite well in very low light.

I've seen bats often, thanks to my passion for night fishing, and they make good nighttime companions. On an average night, the moonlight may reveal two or three bats flying circles over my head, or sometimes I'll see one swooping past under my fishing rod.

Very simply, they're everywhere at night. It might sound scary, but there are bats around your head all night long, close enough to slap if you knew where. No bird ever goes that close to people, but the bats do. We don't come out much at night, so they simply don't know us well enough to fear us.

But we fear them, and hate them, and try to wipe them out wherever and whenever we can. It's a shame, and luckily there is a group trying to preserve and promote the bats.

Bat Conservation International is dedicated to teaching people about the good things that bats do for us, and one part of their program is the sale of "bat houses." You simply put one of these wooden items in a nearby tree, or on an outside wall of the house, and hope that bats will take up residence there.

Not long ago, I accompanied my wife to a crafts shop, there to look over unpainted wooden gizmos for her to decorate. (She's very artistic, unlike her slug-a-bed husband.) At one point I picked up a magazine rack, a simple thing with two sheets of thin wood in a three-sided frame of pine, and said, "Hey, hon, what's this?"

She gave the obvious answer. It's a magazine rack.

Then I flipped it upside down, so the open end of the rack faced the floor, and I said, "Okay, now what is it?" She was stumped. So was the lady at the checkout counter.

I said "It's a bat house," and both ladies gave me an odd look, but that is what a bat house looks like.

The best time for seeing a bat on the wing is just after sunset, while the sky is still golden. Look at the sky between the trees, and you may see a small bat twirling along. Look again, because they look like birds.

After the sunset fades, the bats will still be there, circling around, eating mosquitoes until dawn. The Chinese symbol for good luck is a circle of bats, which makes sense, really. If you've got bats circling around your house, you're lucky.

You don't have to think about the bats, and some might find it easier to forget them altogether. Fine.

But if you do think at all about bats in the night sky, do think happy thoughts. Bats are amazing, and they do a terrific job.

The Greater Lowell Fly Fishers club held a for-members-only bass tournament this past Sunday, and boy, what a place they picked!

The Nashua River is chock full of bass, big ones, and almost everyone came to the weigh-in with livewells filled. Rubber worms and jig-and-pig combinations worked best, for bass up to four-plus pounds, and a few members were griping about the REAL monsters that got away.

To find the Nashua River, take I-495 southbound to Route 119. Take Route 119 through beautiful downtown Groton, and after you pass under a railroad bridge you're nearly there. Just before the bridge over the river, bear right at a fork in the road and keep going straight, down a tiny dirt road to the water's edge. You're there. The river is slow, weedy, and full of stumps and bass. But do be careful where you park, since the Groton police had the amusement of ticketing nearly every vehicle as we fished, for the $5 offense of parking on the grass. What a lovely bass water! See it!

The Merrimack Valley Vietnam Veterans bass-and-carp derby on the Merrimack River begins at 7 a.m. and runs to 2 p.m., on August 12. Ten bucks gets you signed up.

If you're interested in a doe tag for the upcoming deer harvest, be advised that August 15 is the deadline for submitting the application,

Congregational Church to hold Vacation Bible School

The Congregational Church in Wilmington has invited the children of the community and their friends to Vacation Bible School (VBS). This one week program will begin Monday, August 27 and continue through Friday, August 31 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. daily. All children ages three through those entering grade six are welcome.

This year, journey to the Island in the Son and learn how to live in the warmth of God's love. There will be fun filled mornings of joyful singing, Bible stories and activities, crafts, refreshments and recreation. VBS will be held at the Congregational Church at 220 Middlesex Ave. A field trip and picnic are also being planned.

For information and advanced registration stop by the church Tuesday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. or call the church office, 508-658-2264.

Voter registration has two deadlines

Would-be voters in Wilmington have about two weeks in which to register to vote in the Aug. 27 special town meeting and the state primary, to be held on Sept. 18.

First of all, Friday, Aug. 17 is the last day to register and be eligible to vote in the Aug. 27 special town meeting. The town clerk's office will be open until 8 p.m. on the 17th to accommodate anyone wanting to register.

A deadline of Tuesday, August 21 has been set by the state for voters wanting to vote in the Sept. 18 primary. The registrars of voters will be in the town clerk's office all day on Sat., Aug. 18 (9 to 5) to sign up new voters before the Aug. 21 deadline. And on Aug. 21, the office will be open until 10 p.m. to accommodate any last-minute registrants.

The only glitch is that anyone signing up on the 18th, 20th or the 21st will not be able to vote in the special town meeting on Aug. 27.

Thanks from Camp 40 Acres

We at Camp 40 Acres would like to announce to the public that we are into our fifth week of camp this summer and having a blast.

There are a few people we would like to thank for all their help and hospitality. First we'd like to thank the Fuller family of Lorin Drive for allowing us to use their pool every Tuesday and whenever it gets too hot to handle they're always there for us.

To Peg McNeil we would like to thank her for her generosity for making pizza day a success. We would also like to thank P.A.C. for allowing us to see Peter Rabbit at the North Shore Music Theatre. Our thanks also go out to the Tildleys and Walpole Fence who donated a lovely picnic table which gets a great amount of use. We would also like to thank Wilmington Cold Storage for the fabulous frozen yogurt they donated on a very hot day. When we needed it most.

Those of us at Camp 40 Acres are looking forward to our upcoming trips to the Aquarium, Canobie Lake Park and bowling and our most cherished memory of the summer is our overnight at camp. Last we would like to thank everyone who supports and helps in making every summer more memorable than the last.

Health Stop, Sit-Well put workers back on the road to good health

by Arlene Surprenant
The atmosphere is businesslike. In contrast, the rooms are light and airy with white walls and sun slanting in through the two skylights. Several excellent watercolors catch your eye. By the reception desk four hats -- a nurse's cap, red fire hat, white police motorcycle helmet, and a construction worker's hard hat -- are hung. Together they are symbolic of the care given to workers in different occupations.

This is Wilmington's newest health care facility, the New England Occupational Health Center. The building on Concord Street houses two separate components: Health Stop Medical Management Inc. and Sit-Well Rehabilitation Center. They complement each other and provide quality health care primarily to worker's compensation cases. Health Stop and Sit-Well are both affiliated with New England Memorial Hospital.

Health Stop, which has 33 offices in Massachusetts and New Hampshire alone, treats patient injuries. Sit-Well offers physical and occupational therapy with emphasis on industrial rehabilitation. Though the health center opened in May, technically it's only been in operation for about a month.

Dr. William Patterson is the Director of Occupational Health Services at Health Stop. He was formerly employed at Wilmington's Regional Health Center and has an impressive background in occupational medicine. Dr. Charles Rollinger is the medical director of the physical therapy center at the facility.

During a recent interview, Dr. Patterson talked about Health Stop and all that the center offers to area residents.

"We believe we have the most comprehensive range of occupational health treatment in the area," Dr. Patterson says as he leads you through the emergency room and examination room to the laboratory where simple tests like strep screens and mono spots are done. He points out the library in his own office may just house the largest collection of occupational health resources outside of any

Health Stop

Physical Therapist Linda Fidrocki instructs Joseph Lilly on the use of a Biodex machine at the new Health Stop occupational health facility on Concord Street in Wilmington.

Massachusetts university.

Dr. Patterson points with pride to the rehabilitation room where state of the art equipment and the latest technology combine to help each patient regain his strength on the road to recovery. There is the BTE Work Simulator that tests strength in hands, wrists, and upper arms and measures endurance. There is the B-200, a back machine for measuring twisting ability and flexibility, and the Push and Pull, which is a functional capacity evaluator for setting up a safe maximum level for pain. These and other machines are provided by New England Memorial. Eventually, explains physical therapist

Linda Fidrocki, they will have an industrial arts specialist come in and do woodworking and metal work projects with patients to build up confidence and get injured employees back to work faster. The earlier a patient starts on rehabilitation, Dr. Patterson adds, the better.

For those not familiar with occupational medicine it is, simply put, the management of health problems in the workplace. According to Dr. Patterson, ever since the passage of the Occupational Safety and Health Act in 1970 and the formation of OSHA and the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health, occupational health has moved to a more prominent position in the public eye. According to Dr. Patterson, the driving force behind occupational health has been companies themselves. In order to remain competitive and control spiraling costs, companies and industries have taken steps to prevent health problems before they start. Representatives of Health Stop actually visit the workplace and give out educational information designed to prevent problems and reduce workers compensation cases.

Besides prevention, diagnosis, and treatment, Health Stop also manages non-work related problems. One of Health Stop's promotional programs covers smoking cessation to get employees to stop smoking. Dr. Patterson explains that the average smoker, because of his habit, costs the average employer $600 a year. The center also runs cholesterol tests and drug abuse programs and offers executive physicals and other "wellness" programs that can positively affect the health and productivity of employees.

"I think we're here to stay. The investment and commitment here speaks for itself," says the director. Health Stop is open 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. five days a week and until 8 p.m. on Tuesdays.

Sit-Well is another component of the health center. According to Liz Gough, marketing director for Sit-Well Rehabilitation Center, Sit-Well's primary purpose is to get patients back to work. Besides offering physical therapy and simulating, "as much as possible," the work environment, Sit-Well also provides job analysis and case management which tracks the progress of each patient.

"We reduce the amount of time a person will be out of work so they don't lose their physical function. We give them aggressive therapy," Gough explains. Instead of a person waiting three to five weeks before even being seen for emergency therapy, Sit-Well offers an accelerated program that takes patients right away. Both Dr. Patterson and Dr. Rollinger consult on a patient which Gough says helps speed up the process.

"The time is really ripe for this kind of concept, especially since insurance companies today are desperately looking for ways to control costs," said Gough. Currently, about 25 patients are in rehabilitation. The number is expected to expand with more staff and future growth.

Looking ahead, the health center will hold an open house for the public September 12 from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. There will be free cholesterol and blood pressure screening available. Invited guests will participate in a special ribbon-cutting ceremony that same afternoon at 4 p.m.

Police nab Tewksbury man wanted for rape

Wilmington police recently apprehended a Tewksbury man wanted in connection with an alleged rape that supposedly occurred in Wilmington on June 19.

Paul C. McBride, 21, of 82 Willow St., Tewksbury, was arrested on July 19 by Insp. Michael Celata and James Peterson.

Police said McBride had moved five times in the past month, and had shaved his head and facial hair in an effort to elude police.

The alleged rape took place off the railroad tracks near Nichols Street around 2 a.m. on June 19. The woman, an acquaintance of McBride, was supposedly told of a party, and that he knew a shortcut down the tracks.

McBride had been released from the house of correction only four days earlier, having served a year for possession of a stolen gun.

Tech awards 19 certificates

Nineteen area adults received certificates for completing up to 180 hours in diesel/heavy equipment mechanics through the adult Technical Institute at Shawshen Tech.

The program ran from September to June and covered such things as hydraulics and mechanics of two and four stroke gas engines as well as the theory and operation of diesel principles. Hands on training was offered, using the school's diesel equipment training facilities. The course was similar to training offered in a technical institute, noted the instructors, who said graduates will be able to obtain a variety of jobs in this well paying field including those in preventive maintenance, trucking, automotive, electrical, repair and overhauling. By graduation, 19 of those trained had been placed, all with the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority.

Reading gets a new, modern fire station

By JAMES B. GOLDSMITH

Most people who move into a new home leave their old one with a sense of sadness and nostalgia. Good times, happy memories. Soon the Reading Fire Department will move into their new home and the feeling is more like - "Whew - at last we're leaving that dump - we're going from rags to riches."

That "dump" is the ivy covered two story red brick central fire station on Pleasant Street, home of the Reading Fire Department for 107 years. Fire Chief Leonard J. Redfern, a good looking, trim man with close-cropped brown hair, is as excited as his 43 firefighters at the thought of moving into the new, bright and spacious 10,200 ft. building located on North Main Street across from Laurel Hill Cemetery. The popular fire chief greeted this writer and immediately bounded up the freshly painted and carpeted stairwell. After 30 years on the job, the last eight as chief, the 52-year-old man still is in excellent physical condition.

Most of Reading's 23,500 citizens know where the old fire station is and perhaps they remember its ivy covered walls. But hold on, this isn't exactly Harvard Yard. In fact, when this writer first asked to see the inside of the firehouse, Chief Redfern hesitated saying, "It's such a mess." Before you can appreciate the brand new central headquarters and all its modern conveniences, you have to know how bad the "little shop of horrors" was.

The veteran fire chief says, "The communications were right out of Rube Goldberg." It's located in a space not much larger than a big closet. In the early 1970's a new electrical communications system replaced the antique mechanical system. There's hardly room to turn around in the apparatus bay, and when you look up at the water stained ceiling, you wonder when the next tile is going to fall. Within the last ten years the apparatus bay floor had to be reinforced and termites had tunneled into wood basement beams. Quarters were so tight there wasn't enough room for the administrative staff which worked at the Woburn Street substation. Chief Redfern says, "It's hard to coordinate and operate efficiently when headquarters is left without its top command. The building was never designed to be a fire station. There was absolutely no privacy there. The roof leaked and electrical equipment in the basement had to be covered with plastic - working conditions were abominable - it was a dismal place to work out of."

The department's new red brick building was designed by the architectural firm, Hughes and MacCarthy, Framingham, and built by Travi Construction Co., Norwell. Daniel Kelliher, project manager for Travi, says, "The building was built in nine months, three months under the 12-month (contract) schedule. If it hadn't been for severe weather in November and December (1989), it would have been finished earlier."

Last year Reading voters approved an article asking for a $2.5 million appropriation to build the new North Main Street station. Town Treasurer Elizabeth W. (Beth) Klepeis reports the town borrowed $2,275,000 for this project. Since the contractor finished the job in nine months, three months under schedule, taxpayers will save $225,000 (the difference between the $2.5 million appropriation and the amount borrowed).

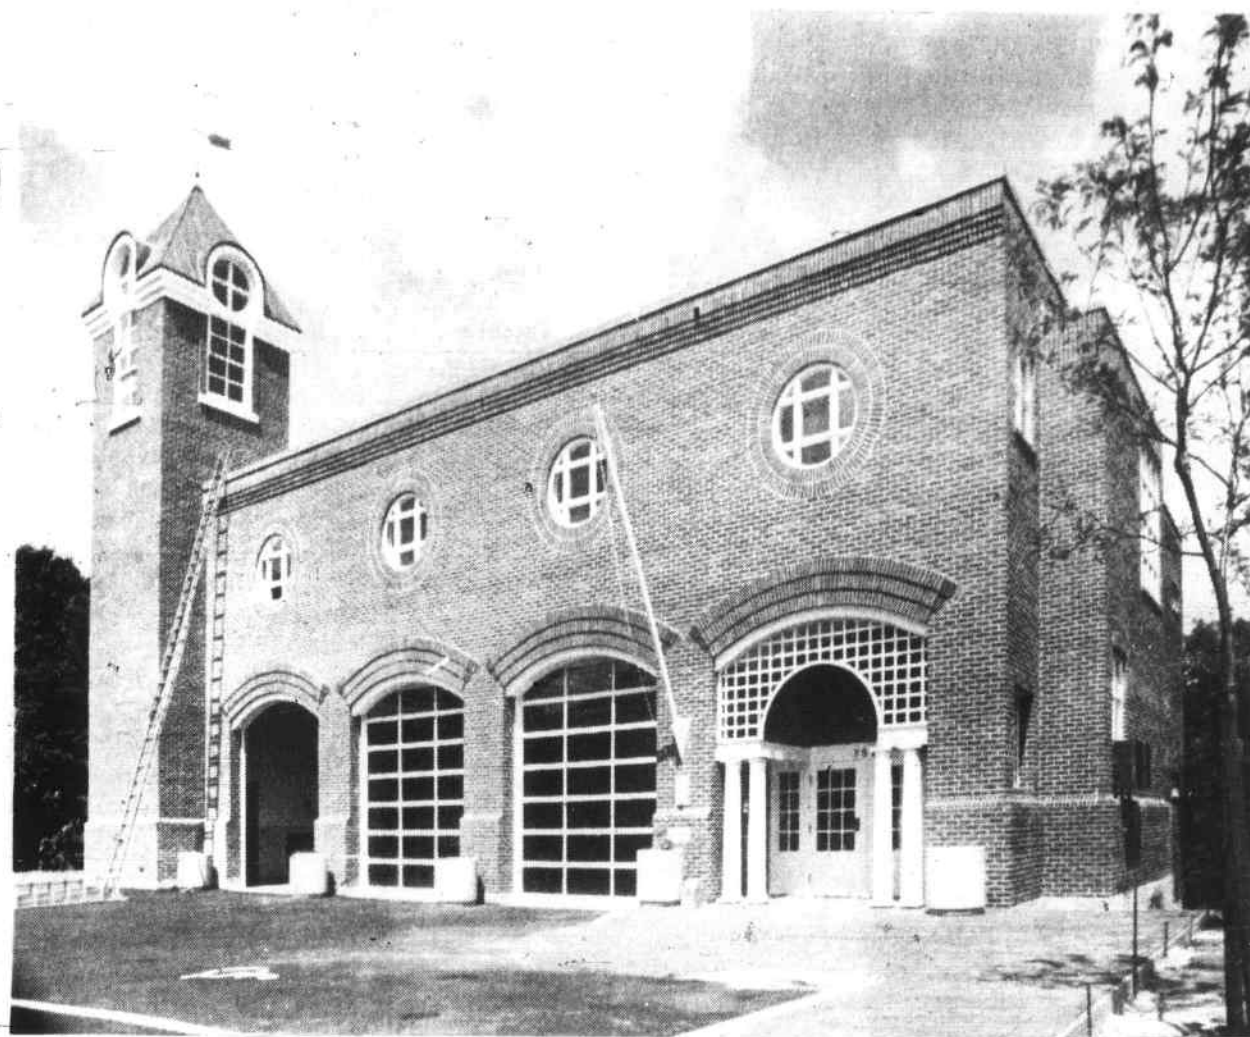

What are some of the most impressive and important features in the attractive two-story building? It has a training tower on its north end where firefighters can practice ladder climbing, repelling, and emergency rescue exercises. There is a hydrant out front where the men can simulate a fire scene and practice attaching hose lines to fire engines and the hydrant. A new compressor system will keep all the self-contained breathing tanks (Scott air packs) ready for all emergencies. There are several spacious training/meeting rooms where classes will be held, and the administrative staff finally has joined the rank-and-file. On Pleasant Street the only air conditioning came through screens that had gaping holes and windows that needed caulking. Now the firefighters will work in a building that has efficient heating and cooling systems. There is a lower level parking garage for department employees.

The Pleasant Street station apparatus bay wasn't deep enough to house the 1965 American LaFrance ladder truck which had to be garaged at the West side station. It has finally joined central headquarters along with two engine companies and the ambulance.

The new state-of-the-art computer system, located in the police station, is staffed by a police officer and firefighter on each shift. Fire Chief Redfern says, "We're cross training our personnel to use this digital printout/readout equipment. It will avoid duplication in both duties and equipment," since both police and fire departments can coordinate emergency efforts.

Meanwhile, auxiliary firefighter Richard Monroe who was working the panels of yellow and red lights, says the best thing about working at the shiny console is "You're not locked in a

A NEW MODERN fire station for the Town of Reading is ready to open in August. The new facility is located just north of Reading square on Main St. (Rte 28) and blends very well with the older colonial style town building nearby on Reading common.

DAN FERULLO

O.K., so it's hot. It's been hot before, and it'll be hot again. Of course, this realization does little to dry the sweat on your brow and chin and on the back of your neck right now.

As I was attempting to find creative ways to remain cool during this recent spell of hazy, hot, humid weather, a question blazed its way through my brain: Where is the wind chill factor in July and August, when the temperature is 96 degrees and the dew point is around 70? That's when we need a wind chill factor, not in January. It's cold enough then.

The unbearable heat must have gotten to my brain after that question went unanswered, because I didn't come up with very many interesting ways to stay cool. So I turned to some of my readers, and polled them for suggestions. Here are a handful:

One of my closest friends reminded me of the idea I had during a heat wave last summer: take off all your clothes and set yourself down on a huge block of dry ice. This suggestion may tend to keep you cool, but it may also result in the need for a skin graft on your derriere. I decided to pass on sitting on a hunk of dry ice.

A girl friend of mine told me that her favorite way to remain cool in the extreme hot weather is to stretch out in a bathtub and turn on a cold shower. I reminded her of the time I tried that while living on the second floor of an apartment building. I ran the water so long that it began to seep through the floor around the tub, into the apartment below. It just so happened that the landlord lived below me, and I'll never forget the sound of his banging against the pipes to let me know that I was in the shower too long! No, that wasn't such an appealing idea to me, even though I live in a single family house now. I still don't want water leaking through my floor.

Another friend suggested that I simply sit in a swimming pool. I asked, you call that a creative way to stay cool? No, he said, but it definitely helps to keep you cool. That, I reminded him, is great for him. But since I have no swimming pool, that idea is out. And no, I'm not about to run over to his house every hour during the heat wave in order to take a dip in his pool. The offer is appreciated, but not too practical.

Then came another bright suggestion from someone: go to the beach. There's nothing like an ankle-high walk in the ocean to cool you down. I replied that I love the ocean (I'm a sailor, I reminded her), but I hate crowded beaches. And I despise paying ten bucks to park my car long enough for me to take an ankle-high stroll in the Atlantic.

Yet another reader suggested that I simply sit in an air conditioned room. Now that's clever, if you've got absolutely nothing else to do with your life. But some of us need to leave air conditioned rooms once in a while to do things like make a living. Somebody's got to earn the money to pay the electricity bill after the AC's been running for a week and a half. That suggestion was good for temporary relief only.

A reader whom I bumped into the other night told me that his idea for staying cool is hiring two beau-

Have your cholesterol checked by a physician, free.

Too much cholesterol in your blood is dangerous. It clogs your arteries and increases your risk of heart attack. That's why it's so important to know if cholesterol in your body has reached an unhealthy level.

The only way to measure your cholesterol level is through a blood test. And for the most reliable results, we recommend your sample be tested by a laboratory. We'll do this for you. Free.

One fourth of all Americans have dangerously high cholesterol. So, if you're over 20 and don't know your cholesterol, have it checked by a doctor, soon. And have it done periodically.

About the Towns

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

STONEHAM - Former Stoneham High baseball star Andy Hartung has signed a contract with the Chicago Cubs and recently traveled to Mesa, Arizona for a week of evaluation.

BURLINGTON - "Entree" is the Burlington Public Library's newest venture into automation. The on-line data base - recently converted from a circulation terminal - contains the holdings of 24 member libraries and 11 dial-up libraries in the Merrimack Valley Library Consortium, encompassing more than 525,000 title records and more than 1.7 million individual items.

The catalog includes books, records, current magazines, art prints, sculpture, videocassettes, compact discs, sound cassettes, books on tape, maps, games, puzzles, and films.

WILMINGTON - They solved the problems of no phones, mailboxes, keys, landscaping, or road paving but although Wilmington's new elderly housing was scheduled to open in early spring, few Wilmington residents who initially applied qualified for the facilities.

State income guidelines and asset limitations proved to be the most significant limiting factors. For example, applicants are not eligible for such housing if they hold one and a half times their income in assets.

The waiting list includes relatives of Wilmington residents and former citizens who want to move back to town. The facilities attracting them include room for two handicapped residents and four tenants who will live in a congregate setting plus an extension added to the community building to be used by all tenants for social functions and office space.

MOVIES

Arachnophobia

by Rochelle Flynn

"Arachnophobia" Starring Jeff Daniels, Julian Sands, Harley Jane Kozak, John Goodman. Directed by Frank Marshall. Produced by Kathleen Kennedy. Screenplay by Don Jakoby, Wesley Strick. Rated PG-13.

It's creepy. It's funny. And it's so mainstream you may be disappointed.

Jeff Daniels stars as a big city doctor who decides to leave familiar surroundings for greener pastures. Packing up his wife (Harley Jane Kozak) and two kids he heads for a small California town and the life of a country doctor. They think they're heading for peace and quiet. In fact, they haven't left the wild life behind.

It turns out, in that coincidental movie fashion, that a killer spider has hitched a ride up from Venezuela, in a coffin, to this very same town. The spider, a huge, deadly, hairy creature, makes a home for itself in the doc's barn. The doc, of course, suffers from a deadly fear of spiders.

Okay, the set up is a strictly by the numbers, but director Frank Marshall does a fantastic job of making his killere arachnids leap to life. The spider, having bred with a local, produces thousands of offspring that terrorize the neighbors. Thanks to all the creature close-ups, only a strong person will be able to sit through this and not squirm in his or her seat.

What's missing in this flick is a little grit. The plot never gets down and dirty. It may look great, have a semi-famous cast and manage to be creepy, but it's never really scary. We can probably blame this on a desire to keep the film rated PG-13, thus allowing a wider audience to purchase tickets than if it had been rated R. Too bad Marshall didn't push for a more frightening, less mainstream story, he could have caused a lot of eight-legged nightmares.

"Navy Seals" Starring Michael Biehn, Charlie Sheen, Joanne Whalley-Kilmer. Directed by Lewis Teague. Written by Chuck Pfarrer, Gary Goldman. Produced by Brenda Feigen, Bernard Williams. Rated R.

Poor Michael Biehn. He's not a bad actor. Pretty good, actually. One suspects he's simply not memorable enough, otherwise he'd be making a living in a better class of movie than "Navy Seals."

Biehn, you'll recall, was the futuristic assassin sent back in time to nail android Arnold Schwarzenegger. Since then he's ended up in flicks like "The Seventh Sign," "Rampage" and now this macho dreck. He really deserves better. So does his co-star, Joanne Kilmer-Whalley, who proved she can act up a storm in "Scandal." Charlie Sheen, on the other hand, does deserve his role in this silly movie about the navy's elite fighting unit.

Sheen has always stuck in the public's consciousness, probably because he's larger than life. Here his swaggering performance is just enough to sink an already bloated movie. And "Navy Seals" is nothing if not bloated.

The Seals, masters of counter-terrorism who thrive on perilous missions, happen upon a cache of bombs while rescuing some Americans from a group of Middle Eastern zealots. They have to return to the scene of the crime and destroy the weapons. Along the way, Biehn romances Kilmer-Whalley and Sheen gets to lurch about in a manly fashion.

This might sound a bit harsh for a movie that's little more than a B-action flick, but the idea of using Arabs as simple-minded, stereotypical nutcases is nothing short of offensive. There is little difference between this movie and all those Westerns in which the Indians were portrayed as primitive killers.

Even if the racist elements don't bother you, one can't get past the production values. There is nothing particularly exciting about this flick, no spectacular

Safety Town to begin August 13

The Burlington Mall will begin its 20th Annual Safety Town Program on Monday, August 13.

Safety Town is a child-sized town, complete with buildings, cross walks, street signs and traffic signals, where area children entering first grade or kindergarten this September will be taught bicycle, auto, school bus and pedestrian safety in a supervised environment.

Safety Officer Russell Petersen of the Burlington Police Department instructs the children on the proper conduct for various traffic situations and the correct way to get on and off the school buses. Graduates will be presented with diplomas and safety booklets. Safety Town is free and consists of a single one-hour class. Classes are scheduled at 10 and 11 a.m., August 13-17 and August 20-24 and are held in an area near the Sears Auto Center. Class size is limited and students are accepted on a first-come, first-served, pre-registration basis.

Parents who wish to register their children in a free class are asked to call the Burlington Mall Office at (617) 272-5833 or (617) 272-8667, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., as soon as possible.

--Kids who aim to be stars and adults who hanker to be star volunteers are urged to immediately contact Reading's Imagination Station scouts about the CATV telethon to be held September 8th.

No special talents required - the goal is a non-competitive fun-for-all. For more information, please contact Betsy Coldewey at (617) 944-1595 or Lorraine Salter at (617) 944-5951.

And by the way, the Imagination Station crew is extremely grateful to Winchester merchants at Topsy Turvy and Sassy Cissie II. Both stores are donating 10 percent of all June and July purchases by Reading residents to Imagination Station. Now that takes imagination!

--Recent North Reading High graduate David Shapleigh received an honorable mention - and third place overall - for the bookmark design he created for the Massachusetts Association for Educational Media during School Library Media Month.

--"What's a tree done for you lately?"

Wakefield Atwell sixth grader Michael Blais answers that question in his WCRB public service announcement.

"Believe it or not," he says, "trees do things you could not even think of. Trees supply oxygen, and one acre of trees can save 18 people. Trees provide food and shelter for birds and wild animals. Trees give us all kinds of products, like lumber for building, cellulose for paper, and fiber, nuts, mulches, oils, gum, syrups and fruits.

"Trees also block us from the sunlight. And trees cover ugly sights like dumps.

"But most of all, trees are beautiful!"

--Looks as if Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Hoyt is Stoneham's chief knight in shining armor ... of the reading round table, a program which encourages students to read by awarding them points that allow them to advance through various stages of knighthood.

Students met recently with Hoyt and Assistant Superintendent of Schools Dr. Ellen Bueschel to discuss the 13 books they've read and to be dubbed knights.

This year's knights are: Cheri Hastings, Melissa Bennett, Mary Swanson, Andrea Pullo, Danielle Cioffi, Christina Andrews, Emily Hopwood, Tarrah Curtis, Monique Doucette, Dinal Misail, Andy Devlin, Michael Lindstrom.

Plus: Kelly Mooney, Jana Doherty, Dennis Daly, Brendan Connors, Susie Ng, Courtney DeGeorge, Kerry Lacey, Jancee Ponzo, Nancy Poon, Elizabeth Hanson, Laura Fiore, Alicia Christofi, Patricia Fiore, Tim Sullivan, and Lindsay French.

Good knight.

Thursday night clinics at REI

REI, 275 Salem St., (exit 40 off Rte. 128), Reading, will be holding Thursday night clinics during August. The schedule is as follows:

August 2, 7 p.m. - Hosteling in Europe. How would you like to spend a night in a 300-year old castle? Or perhaps an 18th-century Victorian is more your style? Well, these and many other possibilities exist when you go Youth Hosteling in Europe. Hear what hosteling is all about from REI's veteran hosteler, David Schurman. And remember, hosteling is for everyone regardless of age.

August 9, 7 p.m. - Map and Compass. Whether you are a novice or just want to brush up on your map and compass skills, this clinic is for you. Betty Flaxa and David Bailey form the New England Orienteering Club will be talking about the equipment and techniques you need to keep you for getting lost while out in the woods.

August 16, 7 p.m. - The Complete British Experience. Although Great Britain is relatively small, it is a haven for outdoor-minded people. REI's Bill Fischelis will introduce you to the wonders awaiting you on this island paradise such as sea kayaking, 13th-century castle exploring, ice climbing and ski mountaineering.

August 30, 7 p.m. - Sea Kayaking the Barrier Reef off Belize. Situated along the Caribbean coast of Central America, Belize offers a perfect launching point to explore the second largest barrier reef in the world.

For more information on any of these clinics, please call (617) 944-5103.

Woodchips

ANTHONY MANCONI

Father Mark Hannon, Pastor of St. Patrick's Church in Stoneham told me that he has instructed all his associate pastors to limit their sermons during the hot, humid, muggy days of July and August to eight minutes. Father Mark continued saying, "if you can't get your message across in that time, then you haven't prepared your homily." While on vacation recently in New Hampshire, Father Cronin said, "My talk will be very brief this Sunday. A friend gave me a puppy last week and somehow it got into my study and chewed up my notes." I waited after Mass and told him, "Father, if that friend of yours has any more puppies from that litter, I'd like to buy one at any price. I know just who I would present it to as a gift."

Maybe I'm old and getting to be an old "fuddy-duddy" but this copy is being written on July 17th and the kids in my neighborhood are still shooting off an occasional "blockbuster" of a firework. It's a good darn thing they are illegal and expensive or they would continue up to Christmas. I really don't mind the noise personally, but there are quite a few senior citizens who also have the right to "Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Quiet!"

Folks, how long "just a minute" is depends on which side of the bathroom door you're standing on. Salinas, California is known as the "Salad Bowl of America." Every morning before the farmhands go into the fields, they join hands and say, "lettuce pray." I read in the newspaper recently that a chicken farmer was found dead in one of Frank Perdue's henhouses. The police are investigating - they suspect "fowl play."

If you are a new reader of Woodchips, let me try to explain what this column is all about. Its format is based on the premise that "laughter is the shock absorber of the ruts, pot-holes and detours on the road of life." Kathy was so worried about getting gray that she turned "blond" overnight. When Bob Giguere was going to school, the teacher told him to get up and spell "straight." "S-T-R-A-I-G-H-T." "Excellent," the surprised teacher said. "Now tell the class what it means." Bob smiled and said, "It means, without Gingerale!"

Mary Gallagher of Melrose is a first grade teacher. She told me she had her class sing The Old Gray Mare. Afterwards she asked if anyone knew what an old gray mare was. One youngster raised his hand, then said, "Teacher, I think he's the man who runs the city!"

After more than two days of pleading with Kathy to mend a rip in my pants, I decided to do it myself. She came home from beano, looked at what I was doing and shouted, "Hey, you idiot, that thimble is on the wrong finger." I looked up and snarled, "I know it dear - it should be on YOUR finger!" The only realities are Sunrise and Sunset. Without them, folks, everything else is unimportant.

Mary is still a grand name. "Miss Smith," said the president of a company to his secretary, "I have a very important message for all employees. Please connect me with the coffee machine area."

Personality Winners - Gina M. Baxter, John Chan, Christine E. Kennedy, Elaine Scarfo, Jean M. Terrio, Steven C. Colby, Raul E. Diaz, Darren J. Ikels, Dennis E. Murphy and Samuel Liang, all of Burlington; Karl J. Arsenault, Jeffrey M. Dorandi, Mark S. Goucher, Christopher M. Holtsberg and Cathryn M.

O'Connor, all of Reading; Timothy J. Brown, Michael P. Coombs, Kevin J. Doherty, Kristine A. Jacket and Mary E. West, all of Wakefield; Nancy S. Bluestein, Tim Bianco, Michelle Fleming, Steve Hancock, Florence Gosselin, R.N., Edmond and Marie Baratta and Rev. Thomas Foley, all of Winchester; Matthew F. Balestrieri, Constance A. Bardascino, Paul E. Duffy, Jennifer L. Gervais, Deborah A. Kendall, Lauren A. Miller, Amy A. Soave, Diane M. Ward and Mark B. Rathbun all of Woburn; Fire Chief Fred Shaw, Josephine Doherty, Colleen Dolan, Fire Captain Rich Nash, and thanks to Firefighter Jack Mooney of Reading who with the Reading Fire Dept. helped extinguish a two alarm fire in North Reading; Victor Fanikos, Carmine Mastrogianni and Walter Flaherty, CPA's of Lynnfield; Lee LeBell, Willie Cobb, Mario DiMino, Sis Russo, James McCarthy, Frank Burns, Ed Proodian, Nancy Kerrigan and Joseph and Bob Cerretani, all of Stoneham; Lee Markey, Paul H. Sullivan, Charlotte Samson, Hugh Wiberg and Patricia Adams and Megan Carlon; Doug and Claire Maguire (Happy 32nd wedding anniversary), Joseph and Patricia Foley and you, too Johnny, Jr., Maureen McGurn and Suzie Johnson all of Tewksbury.

There isn't any better key to success than the "master key" of communications. It matters not whether or not our callings are in the fields of teaching, business, clergy, military or just a plain "schmoo" like me. We must have what we mean clearly understood. We cannot assume that others will fill in the missing blanks in our speech. We must write, say or spell it out so there isn't any question about what we mean. A case in point. A blacksmith removed a red-hot iron from the forge and placed it on the anvil. He then shouted to his not-so-bright helper, "Harry, pick up that sixteen pound sledgehammer and, when I nod my head, hit it!" Some cars come with an air tight guarantee. If any air leaks out of any of the tires it will cheerfully be replaced, free of charge.

Woodchips Daffynitions: House - four walls covered with a mortgage; Horsepower - something that was much safer when the horse and wagon had it; Poor Distribution - a bald headed man with a luxuriously flowing moustache; Smile - something that costs less than electricity and gives more light; Homecooking - where I think my wife Kathy is until I find out she was out playing golf.

Many years ago movies were silent. The only sound came from a piano whose player tried to match the music with the scenes being shown on the screen. In the early 30's sound and pictures were synchronized and families attended for an enjoyable evening, seeing and hearing this new invention called "talkies." Parents had no need to be concerned whether or not the movies were PG, R, or any other rating. The pictures of that era were ALL wholesome family stories, musicals or sagas of the Western Frontier where the cowboy ended the picture by kissing his horse. Sad to say, movies that were silent are now for the most part, unspeakable!

The "Who Cares" Chip - Smith is the most common name in the U.S.A., followed by Johnson, Williams, Brown, Jones and Hey You. (That's what my boss called me for over ten years.) The doctor called up Mario DiMino and said, "The check you sent me bounced back." "So what?" Mario replied, "so did my Arthritis!"

Super Star of the week is Capt. Larz Neilson of Wilmington.

Antique oriental rug exhibit

Koko Boodakian & Sons' (Winchester) 81-year-old Rug of Civilization will be the showpiece in the First Annual "Antique Oriental Rug Exhibit" sponsored by the Oriental Rug Retailers of America (ORRA) when the national organization meets in Boston later this summer. The exhibit is free to the public on Monday, August 6 and Tuesday, August 7 from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. at the Boston Sheraton Hotel and Tower.

This first-time public exhibition of some of the most important examples of the ancient art of rug weaving is one of the highlights of ORRA's Tenth Annual International Rug Fair (Hynes Auditorium/August 5-9). According to Allan Furman, ORRA convention chair, "In addition to the rare opportunity to view the Boodakian's Rug of Civilizations, this public show will include 50 prized antique Oriental rugs, selected from ORRA member collections."

The pride of the Boodakian collection, and considered one of the finest examples of the art, the Rug of Civilizations took ten craftsmen nearly 12 years to complete. Presented to the Sultan Ahmed Mirza Kajar upon his rise to the Persian throne in 1909, the rug measures 13'2" x 9'7" and depicts over 165 great leaders of varying historical significance.

ORRA was founded in 1970 to provide a reliable source of information for the consumer and act as a collective voice in matters promoting the business interests and general welfare of its member and the industry.

The First Annual "Antique Oriental Rug Exhibit" is a one-of-a-kind display of some of the finest Oriental rugs in the country, highlighted by the rare public showing of Koko Boodakian & Sons' Rug of Civilization. For more information call Koko Boodakian & Sons at (617) 729-5566.

CAN 50 LBS. CHANGE YOUR LIFE?

If you're overweight, the answer is a simple yes. Imagine how you'd feel if you lost 50 lbs. Healthier, more self-confident. Instead of avoiding mirrors, you could look at them and admire the reflection.

But how do you safely lose 50 pounds? At Winchester Hospital's Center for Nutritional Research, our goal is to help you lose 20 to 25 percent of your weight. Some people lose more, some less, depending on their weight, but of those who enter and finish the program, there is an average loss of 50 pounds each.

We know losing weight by yourself can be hard. That's why we offer a team approach, five professionals to help you reach your goal: a nutritionist/dietitian, nurse, physician, psychologist, and exercise physiologist.

Through our nutritionally sound program, we treat people who are overweight, severely overweight or medically obese. And we do it with an ongoing weight maintenance program to ensure that once the weight is off, it stays off.

The Center for Nutritional Research also offers the very low caloric Optifast® diet. For more information, visit us in our new offices, or call 617-756-2445 or 617-729-9042.

Free Orientation - Wednesday, August 1, at 7:30 p.m. • Call for reservations

MAGIC IN LEXINGTON

A Magic Show will be the featured attraction at the annual Summer School Arts Festival sponsored by Minuteman Tech on Friday evening, August 3, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. In addition to the Magic Show, the festival will include an art exhibit by the students of Norma Regillo, an arts and crafts exhibit by the students of Sheila Murphy and a Theater Workshop presentation by the students of Mark and Patrice Rider.

Participating in the Magic Show will be the students of professional magician David Oliver who has taught magic for the past six years and has been teaching and performing in the greater Boston area and all over the United States for the past nine years. He is a member of the International Brotherhood of Magicians and the Society of American Magicians.

Admission to the Arts Festival is free, and the public is invited to attend. Minuteman Tech is located in Lexington at the intersection of Route 2A and Massachusetts Ave., just west of Route 128.

BRING KIDS TO "CLOWN DAY" IN MARBLEHEAD

Clown Day sponsored by the Greater Boston Clowns of America Inc. "Alley 54" will be Saturday, August 4 at Crocker Park, Marblehead. Activities for the public will begin at 11 a.m. There will be face painting, clowns, popcorn and carnival type games with prizes.

A clown costume competition for children will begin at 1:30 p.m. This event is open to all children ages 12 and under. Registration is free. At 2 p.m. there will be a free clown show on the park stage.

All other clowns and interested persons are invited to register for morning workshops at the Marblehead Park and recreation building on School Street. Registration will open at 8:30 a.m., workshops start at 9:30 a.m. and end at 11:45 a.m. Fee is $15 for adults and $10 for children 16 and under. Local clowns appearing are U-No and Zero.

Clowns from the New England area will take part in this 14th annual event. Clowns of America International is an organization of over 4,000 members.

Alley 54 is a local chapter with over 60 performing clowns. For more information call (508) 531-7891 or (508) 283-4098.

NEWPORT FOLK FESTIVAL AUGUST 11 & 12

The 1990 Ben & Jerry's Newport Folk festival will feature a showcase of southern songwriters on Saturday, August 11 at Fort Adams State Park in Newport. Robert Earl Keen, Jr. from Texas, New Orleans-raised Chris Smither and Nashville based David Olney all perform in the guitar/vocal tradition, each creating an individual sound and style that reflects his distinct perception of southern America.

The Sunday, August 12th concert will feature an amazing display of guitar and string instrumentalists. Led by Ry Cooder, David Lindley and Richard Thompson, the very best acoustic players will grace the Newport stage.

Ry Cooder's performance at last year's event was heralded by fans and critics alike as one of the festival highlights. Cooder will return to Newport with lapsteel and fiddle wizard David Lindley in their only New England appearance this year.

Rounding out the Sunday festival program will be singer/songwriter Michelle Choked, the Roches, Ashley Cleveland and, from New Orleans, The Wild Magnolias and the Rebirth Jazz Band.

Tickets to the Ben & Jerry's Newport Folk Festival, August 11 and 12, are $20 per day in advance and $22.50 on the festival weekend. Children under 12 are $10. Tickets are available at all Ticketmaster locations or may be charged by phone: (617) 931-2000. Tickets may also be purchased directly at the Festival Office in Newport, located at 670 Thames Street, or at The Music Box, 160 Thames Street.

GREAT WOOD SUMMER CONCERTS

Concerts by James Taylor, The Moody Blues, Tommy Page, Santana, Eric Clapton and Joan Armatrading are scheduled during the August 2-12 period of the Great Woods Summer Series.

James Taylor appears at Great Woods for three performances Thursday, August 2 through Saturday, August 4. The timeless quality of James Taylor's music has made him a favorite of several generations.

The Moody Blues take center-stage at Great Woods on Sunday, August 5. For over two decades this British band has maintained loyal fans across the globe. Their recent hit "Your Wildest Dreams" was the band's first top ten single since their ground-breaking "Nights in White Satin" and awakened a new generation of fans to their unique style of orchestral rock.

On Tuesday, August 7, teen sensation Tommy Page performs at Great Woods. Special Guests are Sweet Sensation & Linear. A self-made star, Tommy Page emerged as a talented newcomer with his debut album in 1988 which launched his meteoric rise to fame.

The soulful latin rhythms of Santa come to Great Woods on Wednesday, August 8. For more than twenty years Carlos Santana has created musical magic on his guitar with raw emotion and pure harmony, that remains unsurpassed. His unforgettable hits include "Black Magic Woman," "She's Not There" and "Obe Como Va."

Eric Clapton performs three concerts at Great Woods on Thursday, August 9, through Saturday, August 11. A third concert has been added on Thursday, August 9. Considered to be the world's premier rock and blues guitarist, his career spans 26 effects or chase scenes. Also, it doesn't always make sense. At one point the terrorist leader is in a building which the Seals have managed to blow up. In the next scene he's strutting around, not a scratch on him. No explanation is given for his escape. Kind of makes you wonder if director Lewis Teague checked out during editing. Kind of makes the audience want to stay away.

SHORT TAKES

Ghost is a weird but wonderful romance that showcases the talents of Patrick Swayze, Demi Moore and Whoopi Goldberg. In this imaginative love-story, the leading man is dead but won't give up the ghost. He insists on contacting his grieving girlfriend via a charlatan psychic. A thriller with a sense of humor, it is stunningly photographed and immensely intriguing. Rated PG-13.  1/2

Quick Change is a welcome relief to the noise and violence offered up by most summer flicks. Bill Murray, Geena Davis and Randy Quaid star as unlikely, and very clever, bank robbers who just want to make one big score and get out of New York, forever. There is a delightful blend of physical and cerebral humor here - the comedy is intelligent but not outside the mainstream. Murray, who co-directed, gives his best performance to date. Rated R.  1/2

Die Hard 2: Die Harder is a bigger, louder, less funny version of last summer's blockbuster adventure. Bruce Willis must save an airport this time out, but the story is unlikely, the terrorists lack the charisma of the bad guys in the original flick and the special effects dwarf the rest of the film. Pretty mediocre all around. Rated R. **

The Jetsons is a pitiful excuse for kiddie entertainment. The humor of the television series has been replaced with lots of sappy, music video-like sequences that are guaranteed to put you, and your kids, to sleep. The animation is as listless as the story. Rated G. *

years, over 100 albums and has inspired rock artists worldwide.

Joan Armatrading performs on Sunday, August 12. Noted for her stunning voice and provocative songs, Joan Armatrading has paved the way for today's new generation of female artists.

All concerts in the 1990 Summer Series begin at 7:30 p.m. unless otherwise noted. All pavilion seating is reserved and the lawn is general admission. There is an additional $1.50 per ticket surcharge added for parking.

Tickets are available at all Ticketmaster outlets and by phone charge at (617) 931-2000. The Great Woods Box Office is open Monday through Saturday, 1 to 5:30 p.m. (1 p.m. until 90 minutes after concert time on days of performances).
